

Romulus Fire Department headquarters building

New fire station dedication Sunday

Firefighters who have died in the line of duty will be honored in special ceremonies Sunday at the 2 p.m. dedication of the new $500,000 fire department headquarters in Romulus.

Trumpeters from the Romulus High School Marching Band will sound the melancholy tones of Taps to honor the fallen heroes while boy scouts raise the flag.

Local officials and department heads will join Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley for brief outdoor ceremonies prior to an Open House that will run from 2 to 5 p.m.

They will share the spotlight with another well-known figure — Santa Claus, the jolly visitor from the north who will also be on hand to greet area children and wish everyone a merry Christmas.

The new 7,700-square-foot building, located at 28777 Eureka Road, will officially open its doors on that day with brief outdoor ceremonies and a guided tour of the building.

All Romulus residents are invited to attend the Open House festivities which begin with the flag-raising and ribbon-cutting ceremony at 2 p.m.

The "Open House" will follow until 5 p.m. A variety of displays will be set up throughout the new fire headquarters building. Radio and life-saving equipment will be demonstrated by fire officials.

The opening of the new facility will mark the end of the city-sponsored "Save-A-Life" smoke detector sale, a last chance to buy the valuable safety device for $8.85. Fire officials around the country have credited smoke detectors with saving hundreds of lives each year.

Sunday's dedication will mark the second grand opening of a major city building in as many months, following close behind the formal dedication of the 34th District Court on Oct. 29.

The public is invited to attend the ceremony and Open House and refreshments will be served.

City delays payment on suit against Troutt

The Romulus City Council last week delayed the efforts of a Detroit law firm to collect a $1,200 fee for legal services when it represented former Mayor Terry Troutt in a suit brought by James Stewart, then a city councilman.

Council directed the city attorney to investigate whether insurance carried by the city at that time would cover legal expenses sought by Barris, Sott, Denn & Driker.

A memorandum dated Dec. 1 from Charles M. Lowther, city attorney, to Mayor William M. Oakley and council stated: "After a review of the billing provided and resolution 75-482, it appears to me that the bill fairly represents the services which were provided in good faith at the request of the city. I would therefore indicate that there appears to be binding legal obligation upon the city to pay this bill."

Resolution 75-482 refers to action taken June 10, 1975 by council which authorized the retaining of a law firm to represent former Mayor Troutt.

A letter dated Nov. 15, 1978 from the Detroit law firm explained that it has been trying since November of 1976 to collect its legal fee from the city of Romulus, but had been unsuccessful.

Stewart, who later became mayor, charged in his suit that statements made by Troutt at a council meeting were slanderous.

City hall employees set Christmas bash

The second annual Christmas party for Romulus city employees will be held Friday, Dec. 22, 1978, at the VFW Hall, 39270 Huron River Dr., Romulus, according to Nita Laine, secretary-receptionist in the mayor's office.

This year's extravaganza will begin at 8 p.m. and end sometime in the wee hours of the following morning. The party will be highlighted by food, beer and setups.

Tickets are priced at $5 per couple and can be obtained from Mrs. Laine at the mayor's office in Romulus City Hall.

Party goers will dance to the music of Willie Hester, according to word received from Santa Claus, perennial highlight attraction of the annual bash.

Floyd Fulford dies in Canton

Floyd Fulford, a resident of Canton Township since 1946 and who was born and spent his early life in Romulus, died Tuesday, Dec. 5, at his home after a seven-month illness. He was 64 years of age.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Lents Funeral Home in Wayne, with the Rev. Susan Defoe of the Faith United Methodist Church of Denton officiating. Burial was in the Romulus Cemetery.

Mr. Fulford's father, Ernest J. Fulford, was a former supervisor and treasurer of Romulus Township. He died in April of 1975.

The deceased was born Dec. 18,

1913, the only child of Ernest J. and Fannie Fulford in Romulus Township and was graduated from the local high school there. After expansion of Detroit Metro Airport, the Fulford family farm operation came to a stop and the family moved to Canton Township in 1946.

Mr. Fulford operated his own Twin Pines milk route until he retired in 1959.

In addition to his wife, the former Elsie McKinstry of Van Buren Township, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Fannie Fulford, at home; and a cousin, Irene Hull Odell of California.

Plant wins beauty award

Detroit Diesel Allison's Romulus Parts Manufacturing Center has been honored by Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc. for its landscape plan, which augments the natural beauty of the surrounding area.

The plan included the preservation of many shade trees, natural wildlife cover and as much of the existing growth on the site as possible.

A plaque was presented to the division at the annual Keep Michigan Beautiful Awards Program in Lansing. Accepting the award for outstanding service on behalf of Detroit Diesel Allison Division was Ray D. Burns, director of facilities and planning for the Romulus facility.

Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc. is a nonprofit, educational public service organization established in 1962 by private citizens. It was designated by the governor of Michigan as the coordinating agency for all beautification activities in the state.

Over 250 people representing communities all over the state attended the awards banquet and heard Jack S. Wilson, director of Michigan's Travel Bureau, speak.

The plaque represents DDA's continuing determination to be a "good neighbor." The Romulus landscaping project not only provides a pleasant work environment for employees, but it also adds to the serene beauty of the area, Wilson said.

State drops plans for adult foster care home

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

The Michigan Department of Mental Health (DMH) has dropped all plans to construct a house on Hunter Street for six mentally retarded men who were to be brought out of institutions and placed in the community.

The site for the home, one lot east of Apache on Hunter, had been the center of many objections, ranging from technical difficulties about building on the substandard lot that had a wide pipeline easement, to protests from neighbors and negative reactions from council members who were miffed at not being consulted on the site.

According to Jim Glick, the director of Alternative Intermediate Services of the Department of Mental Health, he will start over to find an acceptable site for a home in Westland. This time, however, he will involve City Council and state representatives in the site selection from the very beginning.

Although admitting to being disappointed that the Hunter site was being dropped after he had worked on that project for a year, he said, "I am optimistic about the city working with us to find a different site. "We may have lost that site, but we've gained experience in the importance of including these (elected) representatives in establishing a new home."

The Alternative Intermediate Services (AIS) for the mentally retarded is a new program under the auspices of the Department of Mental Health which seeks to build new homes within communities, for the retarded. A recent law makes it possible for foster homes to be located in residential areas, as long as there are no more than six residents. Cities cannot legally restrict such a home just because it is for mentally retarded persons.

The site on Hunter, however, has had problems since the start.

Although Glick had made contact as early as last year with the Westland city building department, and later the planning department about the home, it was not brought to the City Council's attention until October of this year.

At least some of the council members expressed displeasure that they had not been consulted earlier as to the site. The state does not necessarily need council approval on where to locate.

Although from the outset, the AIS people had planned a community meeting to inform residents in the area about the proposed home, word of the home "leaked" out ahead of the meeting time, and gave the erroneous appearance that the group was trying to "come in the back door." Glick has emphatically denied this, saying that community education is considered of prime importance in locating a home.

Nonetheless, the proposal met with some community opposition. Technical difficulties also arose. A question came up as to whether or not the lot in question was buildable at all, because of a pipeline easement running at the back of an already substandard lot. And objections came regarding the large size of the house.

State Reps. Thomas Brown (D-Westland) and Robert Law (R-Westland, Livonia) stepped in to try and iron out the problems. Brown was co-sponsor of the law allowing foster homes in residential neighborhoods.

They met with representatives of the Department of Mental Health last week, explaining the concerns of both the city officials and residents about the Hunter site in particular and similar problems with seven or eight other homes proposed in other parts of the state.

They were critical that the department never set up rules and regulations to govern all such facilities state-wide. AIS had its own guidelines, but those would not necessarily apply to other foster homes.

That was one problem for the Hunter site home, Glick said. Residents were judging his AIS program according to other placement programs that had not worked out, even though the AIS program had not been tried yet.

What Brown and Law wanted, and still want, are state-wide rules and regulations to deal with questions, such as how a site is selected, the type of home that can be built, the quality and pay of people operating and working in the homes, the procedure for complaining about problems at a home, and such. Brown has introduced, and Law co-sponsored, a bill to put a moratorium on licensing of any such foster care homes until those rules and regulations are developed. The resolution is in the house policy committee awaiting a hearing, Brown said.

The Department of Mental Health hopes to have the rules by the end of January.

While supportive of the concept of placing retarded persons in the community, Brown and Law were concerned that it be done according to spelled out guidelines and with the participation of the city.

A spokesperson for the Department of Mental Health said that he believed Law and Brown to be "conscientious representatives" who wanted to find a way to iron out the problems.

"We won't proceed further until we can work out problems in areas where they exist," he said, in summary of his department's meeting with the legislators.

"We certainly don't condone discrimination (against the retarded), but we want to back off to take a look at the environment and see if it's conducive to good treatment and training of the residents. If the home is in a neighborhood hostile to it, that may have an effect on people that live in the home.

"The Department of Mental Health also realizes that perhaps we haven't done a good job of community education."

He said a "moratorium" has been called on the problem sites, such as Hunter.

Glick's orders, however, seemed clearly to mean that Hunter has been axed as a site, because of the technical difficulties.

Glick has asked the DMH to set up a meeting where he can meet with Brown and Law "to talk about where we are going in the future."

In the meantime, Glick and other DMH community placement people are meeting in Lansing today to discuss community placement strategy.

Glick still is interested in locating an AIS house in Westland, but any planning done on that will from now on include elected city officials and state representatives from the outset, he said.

Insurance firm plans to invest in Wayne mall

What city officials called a major boost to local economy, the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company announced this week that it is ready to invest in Wayne Commons, a recently opened shopping center located in the southwest corner of the city.

John Hancock has agreed to provide $1.875 million in long-term mortgage financing for the shopping center whose major tenants presently are Kroger Supermarket and Perry Drugs.

The news was eagerly received by Mayor Paul Lada who said that life insurance company's actions "would assure the success of the project."

"It's a tremendous boost not only to the economy but to the resurgence of the city and also to the morale of the city," Mayor Lada said. "An institution like the John Hancock Life Insurance Company making available the future financing of the shopping center, all but assures the success of the project."

Robert Sosnick is the developer of Wayne Commons which opened its doors in the fall. The loan was arranged by mortgage broker Joseph Grosz.

The shopping center is situated on almost nine acres of land on the southwest corner of Michigan Avenue East and Williams Street.

The one-story building of steel and masonry framework and block and brick exterior contains 60,800 square feet of leasable area and there is parking for 516 cars.

Volunteers for IRS's VITA sought

The Internal Revenue Service is in need of volunteers to staff the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) offices in Michigan.

VITA is a free program, designed to help anyone needing basic income tax preparation such as military personnel and their dependents, low-income, elderly, and non-English speaking taxpayers. The IRS trains volunteers in basic principles of income tax procedure and preparation, and provides training materials and instructors to organizations willing to sponsor VITA programs. Each volunteer takes a two-to-five-day course in basic income tax procedures, then must pass a special test before being placed in a VITA office.

The success of the VITA program depends to a great extent on the number and types of individuals who volunteer. No particular experience or education is required, however, individuals with accounting or law backgrounds are welcome. Persons with foreign language skills are being sought to assist in areas which need bilingual support. The Internal Revenue Service hopes to increase the number of volunteers this year, in order to better serve Michigan taxpayers.

VITA offices are located conveniently for people who have transportation problems and cannot get to IRS taxpayer assistance offices. VITA assistance is given at civic centers, churches, schools and other neighborhood meeting places.

Persons who are interested in becoming VITA volunteers, or organizations willing to sponsor a group program should call IRS's toll-free phone number listed in their local telephone directory and ask for the VITA coordinator.

Santa here next week

Santa Claus will be at Romulus City Hall next week, Monday - Thursday, Dec. 18-21, 1978 from 3 - 5 p.m. to pose with Romulus children. Any area resident between the ages of one and 15 may have his or her picture taken with Santa Claus. Donations will be accepted.

New precinct signs

Romulus City Council last week unanimously approved the first step in the installation of new metal signs for the 19 precincts located throughout the city.

Clerk Leonard J. Folmar said the new signs would replace "battered old wooden" ones well past their age of usefulness. The signs would be erected only during election times, he said. The council action okays letting of bids which should be resolved with selection of the successful bidder in about a month, the clerk said.

He said the new metal signs were the suggestion of the city's department of public works' sign crew.

"The new signs if approved would be another in an ongoing series of progressive steps by the city to improve election procedures for local voters," Folmar explained.

Archery range nearly done

An unique outdoor archery range begun in Romulus last August, is 95 percent completed at the city's Elmer Johnson Park on Ogza Road.

The walled target range, built through a state Department of Natural Resources and city matching funds, will offer residents eight 30-meter (100 feet) targets to aim at, plus one free-standing 10-meter target for beginners.

Constructed at a cost of approximately $50,000 by Huron Sod Farms, the archery range was made possible by an outdoor recreation grant awarded to Romulus after competition at the state level.

The archery range is the only one of its kind in the state. Inquiries have been received from across the United States concerning its development and use.

Other improvements at the city's largest park include a new lighted ball diamond, two tennis courts, a basket ball-ice skating rink, improved parking and several proposed handball courts.

Seniors to take exams

Eighty seniors at Romulus High School have been participating in a second college entrance exam workshop.

These students will be taking the S.A.T. and A.C.T. in December and January. Sample test sessions were conducted by Mrs. Jill Fleming, reading specialist; Al Wilkerson, vocational counselor; and Robert Long, senior counselor in conjunction with C.O.R.C.

The students are also attending follow-up study sessions with Mrs. Fleming in the career reading improvement program to help strengthen the weak areas that were pinpointed by the sample test results.

Student response to these sessions has been very positive. Bob Blanton stated, "It is a good experience because it proved to me that I have to work some more before the test."

Lela Tennille said, "It's a good idea because I could locate my weak areas and build on them in the study session before I take the real test."

Jeff Bassett felt that "It would be helpful if the juniors and sophomores could take a sample test before they became seniors so they would have more time to prepare for the test."

Other students are now aware of the relevancy of the courses they are currently enrolled in.

Divorce topic of meet

The Womens' Justice Center and the YWCA of Western Wayne County will present "Divorce Overview" by Attorney Elizabeth Deluca, Thursday, Dec. 14, 1978, at 7:30 p.m. at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church, 9601 Hubbard, Livonia.

The legal aspects of divorce including questions and concerns of women attending the presentation will be the focus of the evening.

The "Divorce Overview" is part of an on-going Support Group for Divorced Women, meeting every second Thursday of each month from 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. The group is designed to help women who are separated, in the process of divorce, share feelings, answer questions and serve as part of a support system while experiencing the crisis of divorce.

For further information or concerns, please call Audrey Wasserman, 561-4110.

Dog survey completed

A survey conducted by the Romulus treasurer's office this year has turned up 450 dogs in the community which have not been vaccinated.

A recent door-to-door canvass by Jim Bratly and Earl Champagne disclosed the unvaccinated canines.

Beginning Dec. 1 of this year, Dog licenses went on sale under a new plan which offers one-year licenses for $5, two-year licenses for $9 and three-year licenses for $13. However, senior citizens will pay only one half of the regular license fee.

License fees for neutered dogs will be 75 cents for one year, $1.25 for two years and $2 for three years.

For additional information, call the treasurer's office between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at 941-0666.

Meadows gets grants from HUD

The city of Romulus will have an additional $18,285 to use to clean up the Meadows Subdivision and make minor road repairs in the area.

Upon recommendation of Pat Hogan, community development director, council last week unanimously approved designating that sum to be added to $15,740 already set aside in special needs funds from federal block grant monies.

Neighborhood improvement program, whose goal is to clean ditches, clean city owned vacant lots and make minor road repairs in the Meadows, is one of several ongoing city projects.

Hogan told council in a memorandum that the original $15,740 "will not go very far toward those items" and urged the recently okayed special needs amount of $18,285 from federal block grants to also be used for that purpose.

Started last Sept. 1, the Meadows cleanup program is now winding down due to inclement weather and will not be completed until sometime in the spring, Hogan said.

Also coming in for assistance with the recent supplemental funds will be the Meadows Neighborhood Center, a residential building now staffed by a city employee and which assists local residents in matters which involve city government.

Hogan said the center has acted as a go-between in transactions involving the boarding up and selling of HUD homes in the Meadows.

Tots can get Santa letter

Any child living in Romulus and who wishes to get a personal message from Santa Claus can do so by following a simple procedure, according to Clerk Leonard J. Folmar.

Youngsters are asked to drop their requests in the form of a letter into Santa's mail box in front of the city library, 11121 Wayne Rd., before Dec. 20. The child's name and address should be included in the letter, the clerk explained.

"I cannot guarantee that every child who drops his or her letter into Santa's mail box will get the present asked for, but I can guarantee that each one will be answered," Folmar said.

Arc Real Estate opens office in city

Romulus again has a real estate office as of Dec. 4 when Mrs. Joyce Palmer set up offices for Arc Real Estate at 36572 Goddard Rd. in the old township hall.

Mrs. Palmer resigned her position as director of the Romulus Neighborhood Center to break into the real estate field. During her three years of employment with the city, she took an active part in the cleanup of HUD homes in the Meadows Subdivision.

Arc Real Estate will service all of the local area and the entire state of Michigan and will feature multi-list service to all of its customers, she said.

"I'm very grateful for the experience that I gained with the city of Romulus. I still enjoy a good rapport with the city," she emphasized.

A resident of the Meadows for nine years herself, Mrs. Palmer is proud of the part that she played in rehabilitating the area.

She will serve as manager of the new realty office. Her staff includes Sue Kemp, part-time real estate salesperson; Sharon Duncan, full-time salesperson; Jack Hallet, part-time salesman; Lee Spears, broker; and Laurie Klukowski, secretary. Two more salespersons will join her staff after Dec. 19, she said.

Mrs. Palmer is a member of the Detroit Board of Realtors and the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce.

Pilot commended by sheriff

Capt. Keith R. Elbert of Crystal Lake, Ill. (at right), a pilot for American Airlines, receives certificate of commendation from Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas (center) during graduation ceremonies Thursday night for members of the department's police training academy for recruits from area police agencies at Madonna College, Livonia. Sharing in presentation is Elbert's superior at American Airlines, William Kiemeg, company representative. Elbert rushed to aid of woman being attacked in hallway of motel at Detroit Metro Airport last August and chased attacker away.

Clerk's wife gets top post with airlines

Celeste Folmar, wife of Romulus Clerk Leonard J. Folmar, has been promoted to a top executive post with United Airlines at Detroit Metro Airport.

Mrs. Folmar was promoted Nov. 27 to manager of passenger service and operations at Metro for the giant airlines firm. Prior to her new assignment, she was commuting each week to Chicago where she served for two and a half years as marketing representative for United Airlines.

Reducing your taxes

Sound planning for future must be based on prospects

At year-end most of us look for ways to reduce our 1978 taxes, but this year, under certain circumstances, this could be poor strategy.

Not a good idea to seek ways to cut taxes? That's right, or so advises Donald E. Schmaltz, president of the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, which points out that if by saving on '78 taxes you increase your taxes in '79 or '80, you could end up paying more tax. However, use of the tax money saved in 1978 also should be considered.

For that reason, sound tax planning must be based on prospects for the years ahead, as well as events of the year just ending. The goal is to level off the peaks and valleys of taxable income to avoid the much higher tax rates that go into effect when earnings are higher.

Tax planning begins with the preparation of a personal financial statement. Essentially this consists of two documents — a listing of all assets and obligations, with the difference between them indicating new worth, a balance sheet; and a listing of all additions to, or subtractions from, net worth over a period of time, a funds statement.

To project your tax prospects into the future, a third personal financial document can be most useful — the cash flow projection. This is a listing week by week, or pay period by pay period, of all money you expect to receive from all sources, and what payments you will have to make.

With this information in hand, the end-of-year steps consist primarily of timing income and deductions to make them fall in the year when they will do the most good or cause the least harm.

Such control is easier for business owners on the accrual rather than the cash basis. They can commit the company to paying an employee bonus on '78 earnings, for example. Even if they don't actually pay it until '79, as a rule if the commitment is made this year, that's when the deduction can be taken.

Maintenance work (business related) can be done now or put off, according to the tax picture. The same with replenishing of expendable plant operating supplies — stock up now, or make do until after the first of the year. On inventory, consider writing down items whose value has sagged.

Bad debts? Can you establish that the debt went bad in '78? You must have made a serious effort to collect to establish the timing; should that effort be made now or later?

And what about the 10 percent investment tax credit? Buying and placing in service productive equipment in 1978 rather than 1979 will reduce your tax dollar for dollar and allow you use of the tax money saved that much sooner, although you do have your choice of when you place the equipment in service, for the credit.

Those are some of the year-end planning opportunities for business people, but other individuals — even employees — are not without ways to control their tax liabilities, too.

For example, a person on the cash basis can press or not press for collection of income before the year's end, can speed up or delay payment of deductible expenses such as contributions and certain state or local taxes, or can pay for dental or medical work now or later.

Your filing status (single, married-filing jointly, married-filing singly and head of household) can have significant effect on your tax rate. And while no one would marry or divorce, let's say, to change his filing status, a person living apart from a spouse for an entire year may qualify as a single taxpayer or as a head of household, if rather stringent tests are met.

Or perhaps there is someone who would qualify as your dependent, if that individual did not provide more than half of his own support. But what is support? Not savings or investments, life insurance premiums or taxes — they are not support for tax purposes.

So if you can arrange it that the individual devotes a good part of his income to those, while your contributions pay for meat-and-potato items, you still could get the exemption.

Sound tax planning goes well beyond year-end adjustments. A good tax plan extends over a lifetime and takes into consideration long-range expectations, family growth, housing requirements and retirement expectations, as well as disposal of the estate after death.

One of the most urgent long-range tax planning needs for many families is acquiring the wherewithal to pay for the children's higher education. Simply putting the money aside in a special savings account or investment is not enough (although a majority of families lack even that much of a plan). As the fund builds over the years, its income, added to yours, can be depleted by taxes.

The goal should be to protect the fund's earnings from such tax erosion. Put the savings or investments in the children's names, so that any taxes would be assessed at their much lower rate; in most cases they would owe no taxes at all.

Or set up a temporary trust, under which they receive the income from a fund you have put aside for at least 10 years, and a day. They, not you, owe whatever taxes may be due and at the end of the trust period the principal reverts to you.

The earlier a tax plan is formulated and put into operation the more effective it is likely to be.

Nellie S. (Wells) Bartholomew, 87, of Van Buren Township, died Dec. 6, Roberts Bros. Funeral Home, Belleville.

Belleville student is computer whiz

When it comes to smarts in computer programming, it's hard to beat the students from Michigan State University.

John Dougherty of Belleville is a member of the MSU four-man team that won out over 26 teams, the largest field to date, in the recent regional competitions staged by the Association for Computing Machinery at Kent State University in Ohio.

The win qualifies the team for the national championships to be held in conjunction with the Computer Science Conference at Dayton in February.

This is the third first-place win in the past four years for MSU, with students from East Lansing taking second place in last year's contest.

Dougherty, a senior majoring in computer science, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Dougherty of South Biggs. He is a 1975 graduate of Belleville High School.

Other team members include Earl Goodrich, a junior from Marshall; Richard Rupp, a senior from Ann Arbor; and David Rabahy, a junior from Lathrup Village.

ARE YOU AWARE

The Return of the Lord shall be as a Thief in the Night

I THESSALONIANS 4:2—For yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night.

4:3—For when they shall say, Peace and safety: then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape.

4:4—But ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief.

4:5—Ye are all the children of light and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness.

I THESSALONIANS 4:14—Now we exhort you, brethren, warn them that are unruly, comfort the feebleminded, support the weak, be patient toward all men.

4:15—See that none render evil for evil unto any man; but ever follow that which is good, both among yourselves, and to all men.

4:16—Rejoice evermore.

4:17—Pray without ceasing.

II THESSALONIANS 1:17—And to you who are troubled, rest with us when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels.

1:10—When he shall be glorified in his saints, and to be admired in all them that believe (because our testimony among you was believed) in that day.

MATTHEW 24:13—But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved.

24:14—And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come.

"Dear friends, it is impossible to list all the important things pertaining to the coming of our Lord Jesus. Our space is limited, but we want to extend an open invitation to anyone with interest concerning this great event. We want to share with you from the Word of God. In prayer for you, and in love of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Church to offer Oplatek

The centuries-old Christmas tradition of the Oplatek (wafers) will be available to area residents through the Mariavite Old Catholic Church, located at 2803 10th St., Wyandotte.

Also known as the Bread of Love, or Angel's Bread, the Oplatek is a thin unleavened wafer, stamped with the figures of the Christ Child, Mary and the angels, or other Nativity scenes.

The wafers, which are baked by the Mariavite Sisters at their Motherhouse in Poland, are available in envelopes of three by writing the Most Rev. Robert R. Zaborowski, O.M., D.D., at the Wyandotte address. A voluntary offering of $2 has been requested to defray costs.

In the Christmas tradition of the Polish people, as the first star appears in the eastern skies on Christmas Eve, the family gathers at the table for a Vigil, or "Wilia" supper, a feast commemorating the birth of Christ.

Lining up

It's 3:30 p.m., the place is Carlson Street in front of Madison Elementary School, and the weather is bad. It's snowy, sloppy and slippery. So the parents are out in full force to pick up their youngsters from school. The result is a traffic congestion in the front of the school and in the parking lot that has concerned some parents and staff so much that they've formed a committee to encourage walking, even in the inclement weather. The committee says it's perfectly healthy and safe for most youngsters if done right, and would eliminate a potentially hazardous traffic situation. They've started a campaign to eliminate the problem.—ANP photo by Tom Greenwood.

It's healthier

School urges students to walk

The adage warns: "If you're not part of the solution, you're part of the problem."

It is well-meaning parents that are part of the problem happening in front of Madison Elementary School in Westland, and probably all elementary schools in Wayne-Westland.

A parent-teacher committee at Madison has come up with a way that those parents, and their children, can become part of the solution.

The "problem" is traffic congestion, as students come and leave school. Amid the scurry of parents dropping their youngsters off on Carlson Street and in the parking lot, and picking them up from school, it is considered a wonder that no child has ever been injured. But a core of parents, teachers and Principal Beverly Lambert figure that luck can't last forever.

If the traffic of cars and kids doesn't thin out, the situation could be a time bomb waiting to go off. So they're plotting a strategy to avert a tragedy before it happens.

The committee has devised a several-pronged program.

One of the major themes will be: "These feet are made for walking."

The message is obvious. It's healthy, safe and smart to have your children walk to school in most cases. None of the students in the Madison attendance area are bused, so all are within the 1-mile limit for walking. If properly dressed and instructed on the safety factors of walking, that mode of transportation is the best, the committee figured.

Of course, for some students in the farthest areas, reaching a mile in distance, and in cases of younger students, driving might be best.

In that case, the parent committee is urging a second means of unclogging Carlson. Parents should drop students off one block away from the school — on Hazelwood, Florane, Judith, or another street. Then they would have to walk only a block and will have help crossing streets from student safety guards.

The campaign kicks off this week, as a letter will go home from the committee to the 640 students' families. Parent committee chairman is Lennis Hayes, who also is a Westland police officer. Teacher representative is Kevin Smith.

Students from fifth and six grade classes were commissioned to design slogans for badges that will be awarded to a student who walks. The PTA is buying the badges. The month of December will be a practice month, then in January, students will earn their button saying: "These feet were made for walking."

Ms. Lambert mentioned, too, that teachers will begin health units in the classrooms, teaching the health values of walking. Safety will also be taught, perhaps at a safety assembly, she said.

Careful not to exchange one traffic safety problem for another, Hayes emphasized that if parents start dropping off their youngsters a block away, it should be done simply by pulling to the curb somewhere in the middle of the block — not at the intersections, or where there are stop signs.

Carlson is a busy thoroughfare through the residential subdivision that surrounds Madison. Right now, there are signs prohibiting parking or stopping at all in front of the school on the east side of the street, but parents ignore the traffic orders.

Ms. Lambert added that in January the school will ask that Westland police begin ticketing such violators.

At present, parking is permitted on the west side of the street.

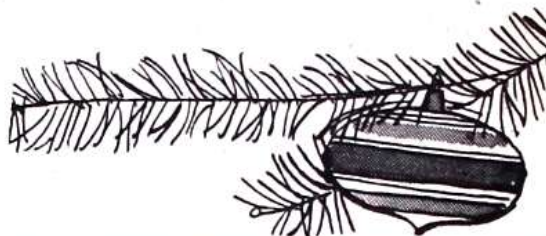

The school also intends to ask the city to change street parking regulations to allow legal parking on the east side of the street where the school is and prohibit parking during school hours on the opposite side.

As it is now, parents will often park on the west side of Carlson. Lunch bells ring, and students scurry out of the building. It may be a rainy day. Mom or Dad is in the car across the street and the students bounds across Carlson toward the car.

Teacher Kevin Smith shuddered as he described that scenario he sees constantly repeated, dreading the day when one of the youngsters dashing across the street, or across the parking lot, won't make it to the other side.

Here's a gift idea

Looking for that perfect Christmas gift for someone special this year? Why not give that friend or relative a learning vacation at College Week, on the campus of Michigan State University.

College Week numbers are growing every year. Last year, more than 1,200 participants (ages 17 to 86) came from every county in Michigan to take part in approximately 50 classes, workshops, discussions and just plain fun.

Among the topics to be covered in classes during College Week, June 18-21 1979, are weight control, menopause, stress, nutrition, self-esteem, retirement, photography, families in transition, inflation, energy conservation and local government. And, one of the best parts of attending classes is that there are no grades.

According to Wilma Miller, College Week program coordinator, there are a number of options available for College Week participants. Many live in a dormitory ($65 for the total package, including 10 meals and three nights lodging). Others commute to the week of classes (for $18) and some choose to attend visitors' day (for $10).

Coordinated by personnel from the Family Living Education program of the MSU Cooperative Extension Service and the College of Human Ecology, College Week has a registration deadline of June 1, 1979. Registration forms soon will be available from Kathy Bufton, extension home economist in Wayne County. Call 721-6565 or 563-2950.

Winter activities arrive at area metroparks

Among the most popular winter playgrounds in southeastern Michigan are the Huron-Clinton Metroparks serving the citizens of Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Livingston and Washtenaw counties. Facilities opened when winter weather arrived.

Because snow and ice conditions vary from day to day, persons are advised to contact the metropark of their choice prior to winter sports participation.

Vehicle entry permits are required year-round and cost $5 annual regular, $1 for senior citizens and $1 daily.

KENSINGTON METROPARK

NEAR MILFORD, one of the most popular winter playgrounds in southeastern Michigan, has facilities for ice skating, tobogganing, sledding, cross-country skiing and ski rental service, ice fishing, nature hikes and photography.

General skating and hockey rinks are located on Kent Lake in front of the Boat Rental Building, with skating hours from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. (weather permitting). The building has a heated lounge, fireplace, restrooms and food service. Building hours are Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Monday through Friday, 2 to 9 p.m. (and daily during the Christmas vacation period—Dec. 26 through Jan. 2).

The hilly slopes at the toboggan area are ideal for sledding and tobogganing, with five toboggan runs and a separate area for sledding. A nearby shelter has a fireplace and tables for snacks. Hours are 10 a.m. to dark daily (weather permitting).

Cross-country skiing is very popular in metropark with miles of trails covering all types of terrain radiating from the ski touring center. Skiing also is permitted on the golf course, where the wide open space makes it appealing for the novice skier of all ages.

Cross-country ski rental service is offered (when weather conditions permit) at the Ski Touring Center ( located at the golf course starter building) with complete rental equipment offered by Raupp Campfitters Inc., in conjunction with the Huron-Clinton Metropark system.

Many fishing shanties dot Kent Lake during the peak winter months as fishermen try to catch bluegills, crappies or pike.

The nature trails are open year-around, with bird feeding stations and animal tracks of special interest in the winter. Photography is an outdoor challenge.

Park hours are 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. For ice and snow conditions contact Kensington Metropark at 685-1561 (Milford).

HUDSON MILLS METROPARK

located 12½ miles northwest of Ann Arbor and near the Village of Dexter, has excellent terrain for cross-country skiing.

This is the primary winter attraction at the park and there are no specially developed trails, however, the scenic qualities of the park made it a wonderful spot for this fast-growing sport.

The nature trail is open year-around for self-guided hikes. Hudson Mills Metropark is an excellent spot for winter photography, especially at the rapids near the North Territorial Road bridge or at other scenic locations within the park.

Park hours are 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. For information contact Hudson Mills Metropark, 8801 N. Territorial Road, Dexter, 48130, or call 426-8211 (Dexter).

LOWER HURON METROPARK

NEAR BELLEVILLE offers cross-country skiing, sledding or tobogganing on moderate slopes and ice skating.

Three natural rink surfaces are provided at inter-connected ponds, located in a ravine where skating is permitted until 10 p.m. daily, weather permitting. Lights and wood for rinkside fires are provided and nearby there are heated restrooms. The park entrance is on Hannan Road, just quarter mile south of Huron River Drive via the Haggerty Road Interchange along the Edsel Ford (I-94) Freeway between Detroit Metropolitan Airport and the Belleville exit.

Park hours are daylight to 10 p.m. For ice and snow conditions phone 697-9181 (Belleville).

WILLOW METROPARK

BETWEEN NEW BOSTON AND FLAT ROCK features cross-country skiing, sledding and tobogganing on moderate slopes.

The most ideal location for sledding and tobogganing is at the Chestnut Picnic Area. There are no specially developed runs for tobogganing, but with proper snow cover the hill is excellent. Nearby there are heated restrooms. The park entrance is along Willow Road. Park hours are daylight to 10 p.m.

Protect your gifts

The Christmas shopping season is once again upon us and large throngs of buyers will be searching for the "just the right buy" for their loved ones.

However, along with the shopping splurge comes a sharp increase in thievery and purse-snatching.

To help local shoppers take precautions and to remind them of the best ways to thwart robbers before they strike, the Detroit Police Crime Analysis and Prevention Section offers some very sensible advice.

The advice is especially applicable during the holiday season, but should be practiced year-round, wherever you are.

Before, during and after shopping:

- Don't carry large sums of cash. Carry only what you'll need. If you must carry cash, divide the money between your purse, pockets or wallet.
- Don't carry excess credit cards. Make sure you record, at home, the account numbers for each credit card you own.

- Don't carry a purse, if possible. If you do have one with you, don't hold the purse by the handle, or place your arm through the strap, letting the purse dangle. Place one end of the purse in the palm of your hand, the other in the bend of your elbow.
- Don't travel in un-lit areas. Try to use well-lit streets and parking lots.
- In your car:
 - Don't place packages on rear seat of car where they become a temptation. Place all packages in the trunk and be sure trunk is locked.

- Always check your car, looking into back seat for concealed persons. Always have your car keys ready when approaching your car. Don't linger in parking areas.

The holiday season is a time of joy, friendship and goodwill. However, there are those who regard the holiday months as an opportunity for quick, easy money.

Use good sense, and have a happy, rewarding and safe holidays, police officials urged.

Your Children May Inherit Spinal Weakness

Your children inherit many physical characteristics and traits from you including strengths and weaknesses of their spinal columns. Just as the shape of their noses, color of their eyes, curly hair or skeletal frames can be inherited, so can curvatures or weak areas in their spines. This is evident in all of Nature ...red Winesap apple seeds produce trees that bear only red Winesap apples; round watermelons' seeds produce vines which bear round watermelons.

ARE YOU SUFFERING FROM DISORDERS DUE TO SPINAL PROBLEMS?

If so, your children may have a tendency to inherit the same or corresponding problems, just as you may have similarly inherited your spinal weaknesses from your parents...or the accumulated weaknesses of several generations. Ask yourself these questions: what illnesses did my own parents or grandparents have? How long did they live? The answers may very well furnish clues to your and your children's present-day strengths and/or weaknesses.

If you suffer from attacks of headaches, backaches, nervousness, shoulder pains, leg or arm aches, bursitis, constipation, stomach trouble...or any of a much longer list of common physical complaints...your own children may certainly be subject to these same disease conditions. Natural parental concern compels you to prevent your children from experiencing the same distressing health problems you have known.

CHIROPRACTIC EMPHASIZES PREVENTION!

As chiropractic has grown, it has continued to place greater emphasis on the PREVENTION of spinal problems which can, in turn, cause any number of other health problems due to spinal nerve pressure. When is the prevention most effective? In the formative years! A regular spinal examination at least once a year during your child's growing years is one of the best physical health insurance procedures you can obtain for him. If chiropractic corrective adjustments are indicated, you will have the great satisfaction of knowing that you have taken the proper steps to assure your child of a healthy body, and, therefore, a nervous system free from nerve pressure or irritation. Many serious health conditions in youth, as well as later in life, can be prevented by this precautionary procedure. Remember "As the twig is bent, so grows the tree!"

CHIROPRACTIC AND YOUR CHILDREN

As professionals of the natural science of chiropractic, we conscientiously recommend that you include regular spinal examinations in your children's health schedules. You will be rewarded as you see the benefits from this regular analysis as your children develop normal, well-balanced, healthy spines, nervous systems and bodies.

TREATMENT STOPS THEIR SEIZURES

When my friends told me to take my children to a chiropractor, I didn't think he could help them. Daniel had been having at least one seizure every month since he was six months old and he was in and out of hospitals.

Medical doctors said he was epileptic and gave him phenobarbital. By the time he was two, he could hardly walk straight. He would start in one direction and stagger a different way. The doctors put Daniel through a lot of painful tests. My husband and I could only cry and pray to God that he wouldn't leave us.

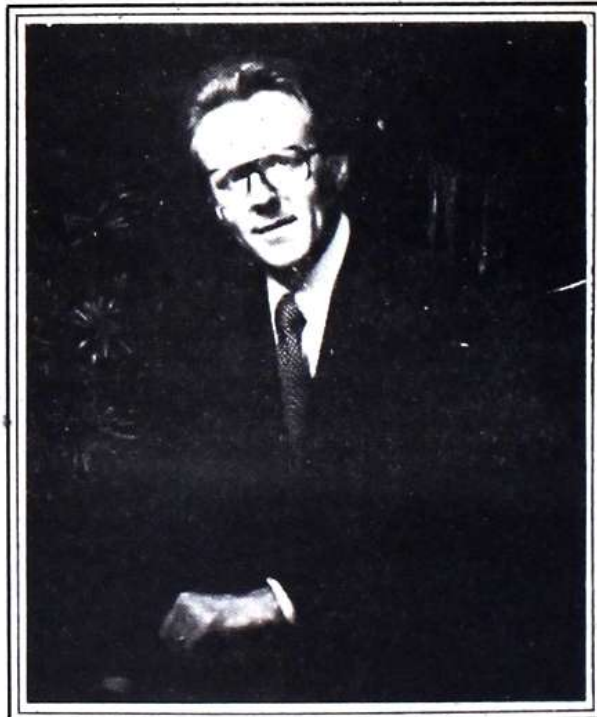

Then our younger son Donny began having seizures. The doctors told us that both boys were epileptics. They said Daniel would be an epileptic the rest of his life. Donny, they said, had a chance to outgrow it. Both boys were put on medication and if they continued to have seizures the medicine would be made stronger. Both boys took the medicine three times a day. The doctors said that if they missed it once, the boys might die.

Then I took the boys to see Dr. Grassam. I am so thankful that I took my boys in to see a chiropractor! After a couple of visits I stopped giving them the medicine and neither one has had a seizure since. They both act normally now and can talk much better. Everyone has noticed the change and no one can believe it. From now on if something happens to my children, I bring them to the chiropractor. I have faith in chiropractic.

Ian A. Grassam, D.C.

"Hey Doc, What About My Family?"

That's a question that we have heard for years and we have now devised a plan to enable your whole family to enjoy the many benefits of good health.

Many times in the past, after being restored to good health through chiropractic care, our patients have asked about care for their entire family. "I just can't afford to have the entire family treated at the regular office fee," they say. Even though our $10 office call is the very lowest in the area, we realize that it can be a burden to large families.

So, to serve the needs of patients who do not have full family health care insurance, we are proud to announce the Family Health Care Plan which will make good health a family affair.

Under our new plan, which is in effect whenever two or more family members who do not have full family insurance visit us on the same day, the first member pays only $8. The second family member would pay only $3 and the third is only $1. All members after three, no additional charge. In other words the maximum cost for the family would be $12.

We have designed this plan to extend good health to everyone. There is a genuine concern that families should stay healthy together. Good health is, indeed, a family affair and it is an affair to be remembered.

Take advantage of our new plan today. Call now — 422-7800 and ask about our Family plan.

All insurance plans pay for Chiropractic services, including: Blue Shield, Aetna, Metropolitan, Teamsters, auto insurance, workmen's compensation, Medicare and Medicaid.

Food Stamp Program to change

The Michigan Department of Social Services has announced that beginning Jan. 1 food stamp recipients will no longer be required to pay for part of the face value of the stamps they receive. Households which do not pay for their food stamps, will not be affected by this action.

This major program change, along with other changes to be announced later, was mandated by enactment of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 and was published recently as new food stamp regulations by the U.M.S. Department of Agriculture.

Most food stamp households now pay a part of their household income for their monthly allotment of stamps. The amount paid is based on household size and the amount of net income after allowable expenses are deducted from gross income.

The total value of the food stamps received always exceeds the purchase price under the present program. Excess food stamps are the bonus stamps the household receives by participating in the program.

For example, a household may now pay $50 to receive $150 worth of food stamps each month. The extra $100 worth of stamps is the amount of bonus stamps the household gains.

Under the new system — assuming that eligibility circumstances, such as net income and family size, remain the same — the household will simply receive $100 worth of food stamps beginning in January without having to pay any money. Should the household's circumstances change, the number of bonus stamps issued will either increase or decrease as the situation warrants.

MDSS officials emphasized the need for food stamp recipients to understand that elimination of the money payment will result in a decrease in the amount of stamps they actually will receive. The amount of food stamps to be issued beginning in January may not meet all of a household's monthly food costs. Therefore, money no longer required to buy food stamps may be necessary to buy what extra food they may need.

Notices of the elimination of the food stamp purchase requirement will be mailed to all certified food stamp households in Michigan in December and January along with their Authorization to Participate (ATP) cards.

In addition, notices will be mailed to all Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) recipients

1 If weak battery has caps, remove them and place cloth over openings.

2 Connect the second cable to negative terminal of good battery. Attach the last clamp to a metal ground point on the engine block as far from battery as possible.

3 Clamp positive booster cable to positive post of good battery, and attach other end of that cable to positive post of disabled battery.

4 Attempt to start disabled car. (Engine on other car should be kept running throughout 4 steps.)

NOTE: To remove battery cables, reverse the procedure for connecting them.

Motorists can use jumper cables to boost weak batteries following the steps shown. Automobile Club of Michigan advises motorists to check their car owner's manual for more detailed information. Improper jumper cable use can result in battery explosions or damage to a car's electrical system. Persons attempting to boost a battery should be sure both vehicles are in park, with bumpers not touching and all accessories off. Both batteries must be the same voltage. Check the battery to insure it has a proper water level and that battery terminals are clean.

Remember child's size, age when buying toys

By LINDA JOY
Executive Director
Michigan Consumers Council

When giving toys to children this holiday season, be sure to give toys which will provide hours of fun — not serious injury.

Remember to match the toy to the child's size and age. Many toy packages have labels such as "Not recommended for children under three." Keep in mind too that younger children may be able to get hold of toys designed for an older brother or sister. Toys which are safe for older children, such as chemistry sets of electrical toys, can be lethal in the hands of toddlers.

Keep safety in mind when shopping for toys. Look for sharp edges, points and prongs. Some toys have small removable parts which can be swallowed or become lodged in a child's throat or nose. Dolls or stuffed toys for smaller children should have embroidered eyes rather than metal or plastic buttons. Keep in mind that the squeaker in some squeak toys can become loose and possibly be swallowed.

If the toys is a noisy one, operate it yourself to find out just how much noise it makes. Some toys are capable of damaging a child's hearing. For example, some cap guns may be extremely harmful when they are held close to the ear.

Make sure cloth or stuffed toys are non-flammable or flame resistant. The label should indicate this, as well as tell whether the toys are stuffed with hygienic, washable material. Look to see that painted toys are painted with a non-toxic paint.

After the toy is brought home, go over all the directions and teach the child how to play with it properly. Although many children seem to find the toy's package just as fascinating as the toy itself, wrapping materials like plastic or string could be dangerous. Be sure to discard any ropes, staples, wires or plastic wrapping which could cause an injury or suffocation.

Check the toy periodically for damage and wear and tear.

There are state and federal agencies charged with protecting consumers from unsafe toys. In Michigan, retail outlets which sell toys must register with the Department of Agriculture's Food Inspection Division. This agency also has the authority to pull dangerous toys out of stores. Its address is Lewis Cass Building, 5th Floor, Lansing 48909; telephone, 517-373-1060.

On the federal level, the Consumer Product Safety Commission wants to know about unsafe toys and any injuries they may cause. Its address is 5410 Westbard Ave., Washington, D.C. 20207; toll-free telephone, 1-800-638-2666.

Having trouble paying your electric bill?

Help us help you.

All of us, of course, must pay for the goods and services we use. From time to time, many of us may have difficulties making those payments — due to illness, loss of employment, an accident or a disability.

If this happens to you, let Detroit Edison know. Detroit Edison has programs to help you if you're having problems with electric bills and to help you avoid overdue bills in the future. The programs are designed to assure uninterrupted electric service.

You can help Detroit Edison help you by getting in touch as soon as possible — by mail, by telephone or by stopping in at any Detroit Edison Customer Office.

Here are Detroit Edison Programs to help when your bill is overdue:

Bill Payment Counseling
Company Customer Representatives will offer advice and assistance and suggest ways to obtain aid in paying Edison bills through public assistance programs such as social service or welfare agencies, if needed. So call or stop in at any Customer Office and talk things over.

Payment Plans
If an extra-large overdue bill seems impossible to pay, don't despair. Payment plans can be tailored to fit your situation and clear things up.

These Detroit Edison Programs can help you avoid problems arising from overdue bills.

Double Notice Protection Plan
When you sign up for this plan, if your overdue bill could result in a service shutoff then a friend, relative or community agency is notified so they can remind you that your bill must be paid, or pay it for you. This plan is especially helpful for the elderly, the sick, the shut-in or persons who spend extended periods of time away from home.

Senior Citizen Rate
If you are 65 years or older and the head of a household, this new rate can help lower your electric bills if you use less than 548 kilowatt-hours a month — 848 kilowatt-hours or less if you have controlled electric water heating combined on your regular meter. If you want more information, call or stop in at any Customer Office so that a Customer Representative can review this new program with you.

Wise Use of Electricity
Detroit Edison has booklets on how to use your electric lights and appliances wisely and other ways to save energy around the home.

Stop in at any Customer Office and pick up what you need to get the most out of your energy dollar.

Detroit Edison does everything possible to get in touch with you to see if you need help when your electric bill is overdue. But you can help by getting in touch with Detroit Edison.

Detroit Edison wants to do everything in its power to keep the power in your hands.

So please help us help you.

County executive proposed

By CARRIE YOUNG
ANP Staff Writer

The search for a long-term solution to Wayne County's economic crisis continues with the most recent suggestion-maker being Bill Joyner.

Joyner, Wayne County commissioner for the 27th District which includes Canton, Van Buren and Sumpter townships, and parts of Wayne and Westland, believes that if there were less leaders steering in different directions, attack on the fiscal crisis would be less fragmented.

The commissioner's proposal is for a task force of 13 people to be organized and have it report back to the county within a six-month period on the merits of hiring a county executive.

Once the report is completed and presented to the county officials Joyner said he hopes that the report with its recommendations would be put to the vote of the people.

But before any special election's commission begins to ready itself for another special county-wide election, Joyner's suggestion first has to be heard by his fellow commissioners.

The meeting where the decision should be made on his proposal begins at 2 p.m. today at the City-County Building in Detroit in the 7th floor conference Room A.

I'm tired of taking a back seat, and on this issue I'm going to fight hard for its passage," Joyner said.

He is encouraging citizens to contact their county commissioners to express their points of view on the issue.

It is time to put aside the squabbling matches of the suburb interests versus the Detroit interests, and for one central leader to carry the county out of debt, he said.

The task force would be assigned to study the current state laws that affect the county government and make recommendations on how they should be changed in order to implement the proposed office of an executive leader.

His suggestion is to have four commissioners—two who reside within the boundary of the City of Detroit and two from the suburbs—to sit on the task force.

Four representatives of the business community should be invited to participate, as well as three representatives from the volunteer sector.

The balance of the task force would be comprised to two representatives of the media, said Joyner.

Joyner cites the county sheriff's patrol $2½ million arbitration settlement agreement, which came at a time when the county was unprepared to meet the agreement, as a reason for the proposed executive's position.

"We have to keep on top of things as they're happening, and anticipate things before they happen," Joyner said. "With regard to the county sheriff's, we waited one year and did absolutely nothing, hoping that the supreme court's decision would be overruled and that the settlement would not come."

With a county executive, preparations from the worst to the best possible outcome could have been arranged, he said.

The issue of a county executive has been slipped under other issues of apparent more importance over the past year, such as pay raises, budget cuts, service slashing and management mishaps, he noted. "Let's put it back on top," Joyner added.

Ford is named to Democratic steering panel

Congressman William D. Ford, who represents the state's 15th Congressional District, has been elected by the House Democratic Caucus to the influential Democratic Steering and Policy Committee.

He will succeed Congressman David R. Obey of Wisconsin as the committee's representative for the three-state region of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

The 24-member committee is headed by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, who had high praise for Congressman Ford's selection.

"I am immensely pleased that Bill Ford will be joining the Steering and Policy Committee," Speaker O'Neill said. "He is an outstanding member of Congress, a hard-fighting legislator, and will be a tremendous asset to the committee."

The Steering and Policy Committee is the focal point for the Democratic majority in the Congress. It recommends party policy, sets legislative priorities, helps develop schedules for the House and the Party Caucus, and in general works with the leadership and the White House in furthering Democratic programs and policies.

It also serves as the Committee on Committees, which decides on committee assignments for Democratic members of Congress. Congressman Ford already is a member of the House Leadership, serving as a national whip at-large. He earlier served as regional whip for Michigan.

Re-elected last month to his eighth term, Congressman Ford is chairman of the Subcommittee on Postsecondary Education, and is a ranking member of the powerful Education and Labor Committee. He also serves on the Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

Election to the Steering and Policy Committee is the latest in a long list of honors

Weaver reports to Gunter AFB, Ala.

Airman Cory D. Weaver, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlon E. Weaver of Scofield-Carleton, Carleton, has been assigned to Gunter Air Force Base, Ala., for duty in the U.S. Air Force civil engineering mechanical and electrical field. The airman, who recently completed basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., earned credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force with the completion of basic. Airman Weaver attended Airport

Senior High School. Also in the armed forces: Air National Guard Airman Hazekiah W. Miller, the son of Mrs. Gladys M. Miller of Chamberlain, Romulus, has graduated at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., from Air Force basic training.

The airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. Completion of this training earned him individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Airman Miller now goes to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., for specialized training in the administration field.

The airman is a 1978 graduate of Romulus Senior High School.

Mack G. Adams II, 17, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Adams I of McBride Road, Romulus, enlisted in the U.S. Air Force, departing Dec. 5 for six weeks of basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

Following completion of Basic training, Adams has been guaranteed training as a security specialist. After graduation from technical training school, Adams will be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

What's for lunch?

In the other elementary schools the menu Monday will be ravioli with meat sauce, vegetable, bread and butter, cookies and milk, while Tuesday will be the Christmas dinner of roast turkey and dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, cranberry sauce, rolls and butter, fruit, cookies and milk. Next Wednesday the cafeterias will be serving juice, sloppy joes on buns, french fries, fruit Jell-O, cake and milk, with a lineup of soup, pizza, salad, coleslaw or vegetable, pudding and milk on tap for next Thursday.

Closing out the week will be a menu of fish and fries, cole slaw, fruit Jell-O, cobbler and milk.

In the junior and senior high schools the menu Monday will be corn dogs on sticks or club sandwiches, corn, fruit Jell-O, french fries and milk or a cold drink.

The annual Christmas dinner will be served next Tuesday and will include roast turkey and dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, cranberry sauce, bread and butter, tossed salad, mixed fruit, corn, cookies and milk or a cold drink.

Next Wednesday the cafeterias will be serving pizza or Belleville burgers with cheese, french fries, green beans, fruit Jell-O and milk or a cold drink, while next Thursday's menu will be cheeseburgers or Coney Island foot-longs, juice, french fries, tossed salads, tator tots, bavarian cream pie and milk or a cold drink.

Topping off the week will be a lineup of fish on buns with tartar sauce or shrimp in a bun with cocktail sauce, cole slaw, french fries, Jell-O, french fries, pineapple and milk or a cold drink.

Christmas will come a little early next week as the cafeterias of the Van Buren public schools will serve their annual holiday dinner Tuesday as one of many entrees they will have on their menus next week.

The lineup next Monday at Savage, West Willow and Quirk Elementary schools, which are participating in the family-style lunch program, will be corn dogs or tostados, corn, hot spiced apple slices, peaches, cookies and milk.

Tuesday will be the Christmas dinner of roast turkey with dressing, mashed potatoes, green beans, white rice, yams, white or wheat bread with butter, cake and milk, followed by a menu of beef turnovers, mashed potatoes and gravy, peaches, pears, tossed salads with Italian dressing, Jell-O and milk next Wednesday.

Next Thursday the lineup will be pizza, radishes, carrots and celery, fruit Jell-O, pudding, mixed fruit and milk, while rounding out the week will be a lineup of macaroni and cheese or ravioli, peas and carrots, greens, pears, cobbler, white or wheat bread and butter and milk.

With the high cost of lumber even the most basic household job can seem an expensive undertaking. So how can the consumer, builder and handyman be assured of quality?

Bendix Research laboratories, in collaboration with American Forest Products Corporation, has developed a computerized, laser inspection system, aimed at obtaining the maximum useful wood products from harvested timber.

Now you can see such a model on the Exhibit Floor at the Detroit Science Center, 5020 John R., Detroit.

The new display shows how a low intensity laser beam, in conjunction with precision optical components, scans each piece of wood for defects. A computer interprets the scanner data and performs high speed calculations and decisions to select the best positions for removing board defects.

A completely automatic saw makes the cross cuts based on the computer's directions.

The system on display has been field-tested and has demonstrated the potential savings it could provide and is now being installed at Martel, Calif., where it will be used in the manufacturing of moulding.

You also can find out more about laser beams in conjunction with holograms at the Detroit Science Center. For further information call 833-1892.

Ford joins panel

(Continued from Page A-9) for Congressman Ford. He is a member of the White House Conference on Library and Information Services and chairman of the Task Force on Migrant Education of the Education Commission of the States. He served for several years as an advisor to UNESCO (United Nations' Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization).

In recognition of his work, especially in the field of education, Congressman Ford has been cited by many organization and has been awarded honorary degrees by Eastern Michigan University and Westfield State College in Massachusetts.

2 die in auto crash

If you were in the area of Ford and Newburgh roads in Westland at 4:18 p.m. Dec. 1, Westland police would like to hear your eyewitness account of a traffic accident that killed two women and hospitalized a third.

The collision of an automobile and truck at the intersection resulted in death for two Dearborn women, Myrtle Dennis, 65, and Bertha Van Camp, 90. They were dead on arrival at Wayne County General Hospital.

The third woman, the driver of the car, is Muriel Foster, 62, of Willow Lane, Westland. She was hospitalized, with multiple injuries, and underwent surgery at Wayne County General Hospital, and has since contracted pneumonia, according to police.

The driver of the truck, Steve Henry, 32, of Romulus, was not injured.

Police are seeking more witnesses because those interviewed thus far are giving conflicting versions of the accident, according to Westland Police Officer Peter Brokas.

No criminal charges have been brought in the case as the investigation continues in an effort to establish fault on the part of either driver.

According to Brokas, the car driven by Ms. Foster was in the westbound lane on Ford Road, apparently intending to turn left onto Newburgh. The truck driven by Henry was heading east on Ford Road.

Police have been unable to determine whether or not the car had actually begun its turn, or where it was in the intersection. However, the end result was that the truck struck the car on the right side, impacting at the passenger

No skid marks were evident from the truck, indicating no attempt to stop before entering the intersection, Brokas said. There also is no evidence to indicate that the driver of the truck was speeding, but was probably traveling at about 40 miles per hour, he added. The speed limit on the road is 45 miles per hour.

Neither driver has been able to give any account of the accident. The woman in the hospital said she cannot remember, and the man has not made a statement, Brokas said.

Anyone who witnessed the accident is asked to call Brokas at the Westland Police Department Traffic Bureau at 722-9633.

'Y' singles' disco continues

The YWCA of Western Wayne County is continuing its weekly Monday Night Disco Dances for single men and women in their 20s and 30s.

With the interests of single men and women in mind and the realization of the difficulties of meeting others with similar interests, the "Y" is offering an enjoyable and comfortable evening filled with fun, dance and music by a live band or disco jockey and snacks of wine and cheese to make the evening complete.

The dances are held at the YWCA of Western Wayne County, 26279 Michigan Avenue, Inkster. The dance begins at 8:30 p.m. and lasts to 11:30 p.m. The fee for the dance, including wine and cheese, is $4 per person.

For those who want to learn or polish up on their disco dance steps, discodance lessons are offered prior to the dance at 7 p.m. The fee for the lessons are $14 for six sessions, or $2.50 per session.

"Deck the Halls with Cheer - Not Tears" will be the discussion topic of the next meeting of the Support Group for Divorced Women at the YWCA of Western Wayne County.

The group, designed for women who are in the process of divorce or who are recently divorced will be dealing with how to cope with the holiday season by beginning to build a support system outside the family.

The discussion will be from 7 to 9 p.m. tonight at the YWCA, 26279 Michigan Avenue, between Beech Daly and Inkster Road in Inkster.

The Womens' Justice Center and the YWCA of Western Wayne County will present "Divorce Overview" by Attorney Elizabeth Deluca at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 14 at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church, 9601 Hubbard, Livonia.

The legal aspects of divorce including questions and concerns of women attending the presentation will be the focus of the evening.

The "Divorce Overview" is part of an on-going Support Group for Divorced Women, meeting every second Thursday evening of each month from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The group is designed to help women who are separated, in the process of divorced, share feelings, answer questions and serve as part of a support system while experiencing the crisis of divorce.

Brothers Electric services Romulus

The fleet of four yellow vehicles that is part of the recently formed Brothers 3 Electric, based in Romulus, is expected to provide a long-needed service in the community, according to William A. Kemp, owner.

The new corporation can provide varied services, and will be involved in contracting home and business electrical improvement, along with a preventative maintenance program serving businesses.

The firm employs a two-way radio communications between vehicles and offers 24-hour emergency service in the tri-city area. As a part of Brothers' overall package, home security and fire alarm systems, AC and DC motor repair is offered, as is refrigeration and air conditioning service and installation.

Kemp's background includes 12 years practical electrical engineering experience, as a graduate of Bell and Howell solid-state and digital electronics.

The firm includes a team of experienced electronic and construction technicians to ensure the best in service.

Oplatek is offered tied with colored ribbons are placed in the corners of the room with a silent prayer for a good harvest in the next season, and a thin layer of straw is placed under a white tablecloth in memory of Christ in the manger.

Before sitting down to eat, all members of the family break the traditional Christmas wafer and exchange good wishes. Use of the wafers is no longer restricted to persons of Polish descent, but has become a part of the holiday customs of others, as well.

The traditional Christmas wafers are being offered by the church until Dec. 15 to assure arrival before Christmas Eve.

The Wyandotte parish serves as the headquarters of the Mariavite Old Catholic Church of the Province of North America. It is similar in worship and doctrine to the pre-Vatican I (1870) Roman Catholic Church, and still retains the ancient Latin Mass and other traditional church customs and devotions now nearly extinct, but is independent of the Vatican.

A traditional Midnight Mass of the 1570 Rite will be celebrated on Christmas Eve, and on Christmas Day there will be a Shepherd's Mass in Polish at 5:30 and the High Mass of the Day in English at 11 a.m.

VISTA needs volunteers

VISTA, Volunteers in Service to America, urgently needs volunteers for grassroots and poverty-related projects throughout the United States and its territories.

Immediate openings are available for community organizers, architects, lawyers, tenant's rights advocates, urban planners and fund raisers.

To qualify, VISTA volunteers must be at least 18 years old and have a skill useable to locally oriented projects. Volunteers serve one year. They receive benefits which include paid living, travel and health expenses, plus a $900 stipend upon completion of service.

For detailed information on VISTA, call (313) 226-7928 COLLECT, or write ACTION Recruiting Office, McNamara Federal Building M-74, 477 Michigan Ave., Detroit 48226.

The first VISTA volunteers began work 15 years ago in the poorest and most isolated communities in the United States.

Volunteer ranks then swelled from the strongly felt impulses of Americans to share with others their caring and their labor.

CITY OF ROMULUS NOTICE

LEGAL NOTICE TO FAMILIES WHO LIVED IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS OPERATED BY THE ROMULUS HOUSING COMMISSION OR LIVED IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS IN ANY OTHER CITY BETWEEN MARCH 16, 1971, - SEPTEMBER 26, 1975.

If you rented a house or apartment from the ROMULUS HOUSING COMMISSION or any other Public Housing Agency (PHA) during the period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, you may be eligible to file a claim for a refund of part of your rent during that period if:

1. The wife or husband of the head of the household was present and dependent upon the head of the household for support and/or;
2. a dependent member of your family household was employed.

If you believe your family falls within one of the categories described above, you may wish to continue reading this Notice in order to determine how and under what circumstances you may file a claim.

On July 7, 1978, the District Court of the District of Columbia entered a Stipulated Order providing that the definition of family income for purposes of computing maximum rentals for public housing, as contained in a HUD Circular, which excluded spouses from the $300 deduction for each dependent and excluded dependents from the $300 deduction for each secondary wage earner, was invalid and violated the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. The effect of this determination is that certain families who lived in public housing during the period from March 16, 1971, to September 26, 1975, may have been charged too much rent. Therefore, the District Court ordered HUD to establish a one million dollar fund for the payment of claims which current or former tenants of public housing may submit for a refund of any overpayments.

The District Court's Stipulated Order provides that, if valid claims exceed one million dollars, HUD has the option of having the Order dissolved in which case NTO and HUD may negotiate a modified settlement or proceed with further litigation. Thus, claimants should realize that the submittal of a claim determined valid by a PHA may result in full, partial, or no payment, depending on the total amount of valid claims submitted to HUD, or the final outcome of any further litigation. Any person wishing to receive a copy of the Stipulated Order or a claim form may do so by making their request known to a local PHA.

Individuals wishing to submit a claim must fill in the claim form made a part of this Notice and must submit it to the Public Housing Agency's address indicated on the claim form, or such other appropriate Public Housing Agency if different from the address indicated, within 120 days from Dec. 6, 1978. No claims will be accepted after the end of the 120 day period, April 6, 1979.

Information provided by the claimant on the claim form must be specific as to the time period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, for which the wife or husband of the head of the household was present and was a dependent and/or a dependent in the household was employed.

Publish every week until April 4.

Editorial opinions

Price of airport goes up, up, up

It seems that the price extracted from the citizens of Romulus for Metro Airport, will get worse before it gets better.

Officials of Romulus have complained for years about the one-sided relationship which exists between the county and their community. But the latest chapter in the continuing battle of the 'people versus Wayne County' promises to produce just another loss for Romulus.

Two-weeks-ago, Wayne County announced plans for evicting 20 Romulus families from their homes that just happen to sit on land the county feels is necessary for airport expansion.

Add to the loss by those 20 Romulus families of their homes, the approximate $7,000 in property taxes the community will lose once the 'Tax Exempt' county facility takes over the area.

It would appear to the observer that the county pretty much has had its own way in Romulus for years. Taking what it wanted and giving little if anything in return.

We have said in the past that we feel Romulus and its residents should be compensated for the inconvenience created by the ever expanding, ever growing airport.

We had hoped that the county would have realized that continued expansion of the airport, while probably necessary, should carry with it a benefit to the community which houses it.

But the county, on the verge of bankruptcy, is apparently now even less concerned about the impact of its airport planning on Romulus residents.

We think it is time for a comprehensive study of the airport and its impact on the community.

It is time for the state to consider granting the City of Romulus special incentives to compensate for the loss of tax revenue resulting from the county's occupancy of prime land which will never yield a 'nickle' for the benefit of the community.

Maybe the county is right in demanding the additional land for safety or health reasons. Maybe they are, but that isn't really the question.

The question is, how long can the county continue to take, and the residents give, before Romulus finds itself with nothing left to give.

The question really isn't whether the people are fed up with the airport, it's just how much longer they will put up with the county.

Ford vote questioned

Combine, two popular Congressional personalities, their 25-member state delegation, and a politician's instincts to protect colleagues who are in trouble, with a vote behind closed doors, and Congressional abdication of responsibility is virtually complete.

The latest example of this combination is the Dec. 6 vote of 275 newly elected democrats in the House of Representatives that removed two colleagues caught in the Koreagate scandal from the hook.

The two held subcommittee chairmanships in the last congress and are fighting to hold them once again.

Reps. Charles H. Wilson and Edward Roybal, veteran California Democrats, were found by the House Committee on Standards of Conduct last September, to have lied to the committee when they denied having received gifts from Tongsun Park.

House Democrats who were elected to the 96th Congress met in their party caucus Dec. 6 to consider, among other things, a proposal to change the procedure for the nomination of subcommittee chairman which would have excluded Wilson and Roybal from consideration for return to their chairmanships.

Following much jockeying, the original resolution as proposed by Rep. Matthew McHugh of New York, was amended by the caucus, thereby providing a loophole large enough for both Wilson and Roybal to duck through in order to keep their chairmanships.

We feel this action by Congress once again shows a distinct lack of concern for that body's own rules and further damages the lawmakers' already shaky credibility.

It seems that once again, morals and the concept of right and wrong have been tested against pure political power, and once again morals has lost.

Although the vote was taken behind closed doors, following the closed session, it was made available and widely distributed by Common Cause.

It is interesting to note that our own Congressman William D. Ford of the 15th District, voted to create the loophole that the two-accused of lying and receiving illegal contributions from Korean Tongsun Park-used to maintain their positions of power in Democratic politics.

It seems that Congress lacks the backbone to deal with their internal problems, but lacks little when dealing with the internal problems of its constituents.

We are disappointed in Congressman Ford's vote.

We feel he should have taken a stand in opposition to the continued influence of two men who have demonstrated a definite disregard for the rules of Congress and the rules of life.

After all, Congressmen tell us they are not elected to mirror public opinion but to vote their consciences on the important questions.

If Congressman Ford's vote on this issue mirrors his conscience, maybe we have a problem.

Pete Rose....

Eat your heart out

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

This week's column will look a subject familiar to many parents, but unfortunately, unfamiliar to many others. As a matter of fact, the subject was unfamiliar to me until last week.

With no shortage of the normal parental pride when one of our children do well, I would like to relate an experience which left me both proud and humbled.

The week before last, I was told by my 16-year-old son, Dennis, that he had been invited to join the National Honor Society.

For those of you unfamiliar with that organization, it is, as the name implies, a national organization whose membership consists of students who have been able to muster the required effort to post a 3.7 grade point level on a scale of 4.

By way of comparison, the required 3.7 grade level would be roughly equivalent to a batting average of .340 in major league baseball, or a bowling average of about 250.

Quite an accomplishment for any modern batsman or kegler, but an accomplishment too often overlooked as it applies to the achievements of our students.

Sure, it can be said with some accuracy that a batting average of .340 today, would, and probably could, provide its possessor with financial security for life, but the 3.7 grade average level necessary to become a member of the Honor Society, provides its possessor with virtually unlimited potential for both financial and intellectual growth for life.

Why then are we consistently bombarded with media coverage of the .340 batter and 250 bowler, and barely a mention is made of the dedicated students who enter the academic 'Hall of Fame.'

I think the reason for this phenomenon is simply that competition on the baseball diamond is more glamorous and apparent than the daily struggles occurring within our schools by students seeking academic excellence.

In addition, the 'single' which brings home the winning run is anticipated, savored, witnessed and recounted in only an instant. But the struggles for excellence in schools, only rarely generates immediate results.

Rather, the student who is taught to think by our educators, often must devote years to his task before success is gained, unlike the immediate success readily apparent when a bowler knocks down all the pins.

It is for those reasons that I feel that students who are honored today by an invitation to become a part of the National Honor Society, have contributed considerably more to society than Pete Rose will have ever managed, despite his salary in the millions.

In the final analysis, the real test of value is not how much a person takes from society but rather how much he is able to give to it.

And even a quick look would prove that the givers are society's builders while the takers are just users of what has been built.

At the dinner where my son was installed in the Honor Society, Mr. Ray Rafford was guest speaker. Rafford, assistant superintendent of student relations for Wayne-Westland Schools, asked the question, "Why do so many of us seek to be nothing more than just average?"

I would guess that question has been asked for years by educators who felt their students were capable of more than they were producing. I know my teachers asked me that question.

Maybe the answer is that excellence in academics has never captured the attention it was due. Maybe if our scholars were afforded the same media coverage that Pete Rose received while extracting millions from society for accomplishing nothing of significance, maybe then a 3.7 grade level would be important to everyone.

Who knows?

But I can say this. As far as I am concerned, my son's accomplishment in earning his invitation to join that very select group called the National Honor Society, is far more important for him, for me, and for society, than 10 consecutive 300 games.

With our country and the world slowly drifting toward the abyss of mediocrity, the accomplishments of our youth willing to pay the price for academic achievement, is the last lifeline anchoring us firmly in the channel of progress.

And if you don't believe me, ask Ed Hamel, Kathy Torikian, Dale Luke, Stacy Pahl, John Perryman, Joe Remington...

More about your heart

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

Our column of last week, in which we cited some information published by the Michigan Heart Association, brought a favorable response. Hence, we'll do one more column on heart.

A reasonable question, and one which is frequently asked, is what can one do to prevent heart trouble?

People must initially recognize that there are several factors which contribute to the increased risk of heart attack. Unfortunately, according to the Heart Association, factors such as age, race, sex, and heredity are your and are immutable. Still, there are other factors whose risks can be reduced by your personal life style and by appropriate treatment by your doctor.

Let's look first at one of the real troublemakers: cigarettes.

If you smoke more than one pack a day, you run up to twice the risk of heart attack as those who don't smoke.

Interestingly enough, the Heart Association says that the death rate from cardiovascular disease of cigarette smokers who stop smoking is nearly as low as that of people who have never started smoking. As an aside, in addition to possible heart problems, the cigarette smoker seems to run a better chance of contracting emphysema, lung and throat cancer, and a multitude of unpleasant conditions.

A man I work with at the PCHA Central Office was at one time a very heavy smoker. As he put it, "I smoked anything that would burn." But for 12 years now he's been able to do without his daily jolt that comes from tobacco smoking.

And evidently it was a good thing he kicked the habit. Not long ago he had to go through some serious heart surgery, and "had I still been puffing away, I know full well I'd never have been able to tolerate the surgery." His doctors were quick to concur with that assessment.

There are some studies which indicate that those who live sedentary lives run a higher risk of heart attack than do those who get regular exercise.

It appears that exercise which is rhythmic, repetitive, involves the use of large muscles, and challenges the circulatory system, is the best conditioner for cardiovascular fitness.

However, as we always stress, before embarking on any exercise program, see your doctor for a physical examination. After the doctor has put together his findings, he will be able to work out a sensible exercise regime specifically tailored to serve your individual needs.

We've written before about high blood pressure and its insidious contribution to stroke and heart attack.

According to the Heart Association, nearly 34 million Americans suffer from high blood pressure, and Black Americans are nearly 50 percent more likely than White Americans to have high blood pressure.

Happily, the disease can be controlled with drug therapy and some simple diet changes. Have that blood pressure checked regularly!

Overweight. Boy, what can we say about that one? It's pretty clear that the overweight individual forces his heart and circulatory system to work harder.

It ought to be equally clear that the overweight person — such as the one sitting at this typewriter — would be doing himself or herself a big favor if he or she took off some of those excess pounds. Excess weight, incidentally, can also be a contributing factor in high blood pressure.

And now for the fifth caution from the Heart Association.

We want to talk here about saturated fats and cholesterol. Some meats, dairy foods, and cooking oils are high in saturated fats; egg yolks, shrimp, and organ meats are high in cholesterol.

Polyunsaturated fats tend to lower blood cholesterol levels. Hence, the Heart Association suggests that one have frequent meals of fish, poultry, and veal.

It is further suggested that you eat lean cuts of beef, lamb, or pork. Additionally, you might try cooking with liquid vegetable oils and polyunsaturated shortenings, using skim milk and skim milk products, and limiting the number of eggs you eat.

So what have we said? I guess in essence we've suggested that cigarette smokers quit smoking, that we embark on a sane exercise program, that we monitor our blood pressure, keep our weight at desirable levels, and watch what we eat.

I'm going to give it a try. Let's see what the next six months brings.

We are friends

EDITOR:

Pardon the informality. I have read your fine paper so long, I feel we are friends.

Yesterday, I drove to Belleville to shop at the A & P. The country roads were aglow. Bright sun accentuated the yellow, gold and red of the many Maples that line the roads. Smaller bushes tried to compete in the glory. The massive oaks, apparently trying to resist the process, were still green. The color, the warm breeze, and the sun, made me feel gay (please understand I mean the gay of 1928 and not that of 1978).

I walked into the A & P all smiles, feeling chipper I tell you. But the girls in there were not smiling. In fact, they looked downright sad (I call them girls because they are all younger than I). I suppose you are now thinking your correspondent is ancient, but as dear, departed George Alpha Setarcos always said, "You are only as old as you feel" ... Ha! Ha!

Anyway, I seemed to recall these ladies usually are this way, and this is strange. They are pretty, they are sweet, and they all have such nice hair styles.

Very mysterious, I tell you. But I am a strong one for intuition. George always claimed I must be psychic, and like a bolt out of the blue, it struck me: their feet hurt!

Eight hours on sore feet is enough to make even an angel grumpy. I had this same problem in the past. A little walking or standing and I would get "mean as an old bear" as George expressed it.

Then, during a trip to Europe, I discovered the solution to the problem. I found and bought a pair of foot supports with the trade name, "Feather stride". These gave me immediate relief, and from that day to this, I have never expressed grumpiness because of sore feet.

Don't take it that I'm a saint, because I'm not. I too, have bad days, sometimes because of back aches, etc. in this country. If they can, I suggest the girls make up a pool and purchase one pair for trial. In fact, I will loan them my pair for this purpose. My shoe size is four. You can see I'm not very big. "No bigger than a minute" George always said.

I would have approached the girls directly with this, but I didn't want to embarrass anyone.

I would also like Mr. DeQuis, store manager, to have a pair but I don't think they are made for men.

'Put the change in the bowl'

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

The snow was falling lazily in soft, fluffy flakes; churchbells were ringing in the distance, and the first misty gray of a winter's evening was drawing close around me as I trudged through the deep snow pulling a sled bearing my little sister.

In the distance I could see the light shining out from the kitchen window and as we drew near the door suddenly opened and our mother stood looking out, looking for her little ones who hadn't realized the sledding hill was so far away, and that night was so near.

The smell of the kitchen enveloped me and as I went into the dining room I caught a glimpse of the Christmas tree standing in front of the living room window. A blazing fire was burning in the fireplace and the mystery and excitement of home and Christmas sprang up within and almost suffocated me.

It was two days before Christmas, but I couldn't wait. I squeezed my eyes closed and tried to visualize what our littlest sister would say on Christmas morning when she found that Santa Claus had found our house after all.

It was deep in depression time, and several weeks before my mother had taken my sister and me into the living room where she put us, one on either side of her in the big old leather chair, and she had told us the story of Christmas. How Jesus was born on Christmas Day, and how the wise men had come bearing gifts, but how the shepherds had only come to worship... which was as important.

And then she told us the legend of Santa Claus and how the belief in Santa was only the childhood need to believe in magic, and gently, and carefully, she wiped Santa Claus out of our belief.

"The magic of Christmas," she said, "is in giving. In worshipping the Christ."

And then she said she had told us because we were growing up and it was necessary for us to know that no mythical figure would be able to get through the clouds of the depression and fulfill our greatest desires.

She said she hadn't wanted to destroy our faith. But then she went on to say that Marjorie, our baby sister, was too young to not believe in Santa Claus and so we were all going to try to make the belief a living truth.

My mother brought to us the small, round ivory-colored bowl topped by a lid with a hole in it which my grandmother had long kept on her dresser and which was used to tuck the loose hair from her brushings. She would use this precious bowl to keep all the pennies and nickels and dimes we might earn, which might eventually be enough to buy the doll buggy that Marjorie had asked Santa for, she told us.

When Mr. Jones, the crotchety old man who lived on the corner, gave us a penny to not run across his lawn, we would gleefully run home and deposit it in the bowl. When Mrs. Thomas, who lived behind us, needed her baby watched for an hour, I would take the dime she paid me, home to the little ivory bowl.

One evening my father stood up from his leather chair and walked aimlessly around the room.

"Well," he said. "I guess I'll go up and see what the boys are doing."

"Oh Charles," my mother cried. "Just put that change in our bowl. Don't lose it thinking you might make more." For going to see what the boys were doing meant that our father was going to go up to the pool hall and play some poker. And everyone knew poker was wicked.

After he left the house, mother went to her room and closed the door. That closed door meant she was going to pray and no one had better disturb her. We tiptoed around the house, kind of tickled over our dad's daring, knowing full well that mother's prayers would bring him through.

And they did. That night after we had been tucked into bed, our prayers said, and the hot water bottle wrapped in a heavy towel snuggled at our feet, we heard the crunching of his footsteps on the snow outside. And then we heard his laugh.

"Sylvia, Sylvia," he called. "Come and see." We could hear her laughter and his shouts of joy, and it proved too much for us.

We crept out of our warm bed and huddled at the top of the stairs, looked down into the living room. The fire was still burning and its light danced on the carpet and on my dad's feet as he danced his little dance of joy.

And then we heard the tinkle of coins as they were dropped into the bowl.

"Oh Charles," my mother breathed. "Even out of wickedness can come good."

On Christmas morning my littlest sister never dreamed that her doll buggy had come from anywhere but Santa, and I learned the very special secret that the joy of planning another's happiness far exceeds any getting.

I also learned how to play poker.

From your lawmakers

Heating assistance approved

By EDWARD E. MAHALAK
State Representative
38th District

An easy-to-run, easy-to-use home heating assistance program has been approved by the Legislature.

It provides for some $38 million in state assistance to help as many as 475,000 senior citizens and low-income residents to heat their homes during the winter.

The program replaces an emergency one, for last winter only, adopted by the Legislature late last year.

During its brief experience, that one-year program provided legislators and administrators with valuable information which led to creation of the new, permanent energy cost assistance program.

It was found, for instance, that last winter's program was more complex than anticipated and therefore more costly to run. Under that cumbersome program, people, if they knew about it, had to find the proper forms, send them in to be processed by the Department of Social Services, then hope that the utilities or fuel companies received the proper checks. Payments were made directly to the heating energy suppliers.

Unlike the past program, there are no complicated forms which have to be filed with the Department of Social Services. Claims for the assistance will, instead, be made at the same time people file their state income tax forms.

The program is tied to the property tax-credit program. Anyone entitled to those credits would, in most instances, also be eligible for the heating assistance plan.

Average benefits under the program will be about $80, with maximum benefits set at $370.

It has been estimated that 90 percent of eligible households will take advantage of the aid, in sharp contrast to the current year when almost one-third of the money allocated for the program went unclaimed. Only about 170,000 households took advantage of last year's program, despite an extension on the deadline for applications.

Some criticism has been leveled at that program because of the Department of Social Service's role in it. It was felt that some people did not want to be identified as welfare recipients.

Maximum household income allowed under the program is $10,571 a year. Benefits will be determined by the level of income and the number of dependents in the household. Those with liquid financial assets of more than $30,000 will not be eligible. However, senior citizens need not count as liquid assets the sale of a home, if it has been sold within the previous two years.

An important change in the program, compared to that of last winter, is that recipients will receive the credits directly, rather than the assistance being paid to utilities or fuel companies.

If the claimant owes no state income tax, he or she will receive a direct rebate check. If tax is owed, the amount will be deducted from that liability.

The program will help those people who need it the most in offsetting rapidly rising fuel cost. According to one survey, fuel bills jumped 19.5 percent from May 1977 to May 1978.

The bill is expected to be signed into law shortly by the Governor.

Meanwhile, he has already signed a number of other bills which came out of the Legislature's September session.

Under one of them, school employees giving medicine to students will be immune from criminal or civil damages.

The immunity is extended to those employees designated by school administrators to give medicine, when medication is done in the presence of another adult and parents have consented to the treatment. Prosecution could be brought only in cases of gross neglect or willful misconduct.

Formerly, the protection extended only to school administrators or teachers. It did not include other members of the school staff, including a school nurse who would be better qualified than a teacher or administrator to give the medicine.

Another new law makes the state registrar (Department of Public Health) the official repository of marriage licenses, instead of county clerks.

The law makes clear that the Department of Public Health is responsible for provision of marriage license materials to county clerks and related record-keeping functions, and make the procedures for the collection and maintenance of those records consistent with Michigan's new Public Health Code.

Also signed was a series of bills which allow credits for service under the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) in retirement systems for those CETA workers who are later employed by public school systems, the State Police, municipal police or fire departments, the state, counties or other local governments.

On the Brighter Side

Walls instead of bridges

By JIM BRADLEY

The tiny three-year-old boy sobbed as he sat all alone on the porch steps. His little body trembled and tears rolled freely down his glistening cheeks. A wave of sympathy filled my heart as I asked the lonely figure, "Why are you crying?"

"I don't have anyone to play with," he tearfully explained.

Loneliness had overwhelmed his soul and he was imprisoned in utter despair. School rooms held captive his playmates and here he was left all alone.

It's a terrible thing to be alone. No age is immune to loneliness. From that tearful tot to the weeping white-haired widow, solitude is the portion of us all.

My mind wanders back to my childhood days when I would seclude myself in my bedroom for hours and indulge in melancholy meditation. Many nights I strolled the city streets, looking toward the heavens, searching for the meaning of life and the answers to its fulfillment.

The stars were my companions during my lonely walks—the moon my close friend and confidant. Oh, they never answered my probing thoughts or perplexing anxieties, but just their silent presence calmed my soul.

I had other friends, too. In the absence of human companions, I welcomed other kinds. The corner street light greeted my evening strolls with a bright and cheery hello. The leafy trees with their verdantly splended foliage stood like soldiers at attention as they lined my pathway. The familiar fences and other landmarks that dotted my nocturnal journeys were all my buddies.

I believe everyone is lonely at times.

The shy person seeks seclusion because of timidity and inhibition. The introvert prefers the company of solitude or books to individuals, but many times secretly craves the warm-hearted adulation heaped on his friends.

The extrovert, even in his brasher moments of outward display to attract attention, many times is inwardly lonely and insecure.

"People are lonely because they build walls instead of bridges," wrote J. F. Newton. The Bible says, "A man that has friends must show himself a friend; and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother." (Prov. 18:24)

For the Christian, that friend is Jesus Christ who said he "would never leave us nor forsake us." Oh, lonely soul, today ask Christ to be your Saviour and realize with the song writer, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus!"

Lord Brooke was so delighted with the friendship of Sir Philip Sydney that he ordered to be engraved upon his tomb nothing but this—"Here lies the friend of Sir Philip Sydney."

I believe George Eliot best expressed the meaning of friendship when she wrote, "Oh, the comfort, the inexpressible comfort of feeling safe with a person: having neither to weigh thoughts nor measure words, but to pour them all out, just as they are, chaff and grain together, knowing that a faithful hand will take and sift them, keep what is worth keeping, and then, with the breath of kindness, blow the rest away."

If you were another person, would you like to be your friend?

Glenn jolts upset-minded Franklin

Armstrong's last second lay-up keys 55-52 win

Though they are not desperate for help, defending champ Westland John Glenn will probably need some help on the boards in order to retain its Northwest Suburban Conference basketball crown.

Livonia Franklin sent that message throughout the conference last Friday as Coach Jim McIntyre's Patriots, with upset written all over their foreheads, came within seconds of pulling out the opening night conference victory.

But Glenn's stalwart guard, 5-11 senior playmaker, Daran Armstrong, made sure that, at least for the present, the Glenn title is not in jeopardy.

Armstrong's drive-in layup with less than 15 seconds remaining on the clock, secured for the Westlanders a naibiting 55-52 victory over the visiting Patriots who rallied three times to tie the score but never got the go-ahead basket.

Heading in for a layup, Livonia Franklin's Matt Thomas (55) encounters some slack from John Glenn's Ralph McKenzie (40) who was charged with a personal foul. Also blocking the path is Glenn's Tim Ruark (22). The two area teams opened up the Northwest Suburban campaign Friday night and the Westlanders walked away with their third win over-all, while the Livonians are still looking for their first win after three starts.

From the mail pouch

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

With the hustle and the bustle of the holiday season upon us, let's clear the mail pouch and see what the readers have to say.

DEAR MR. MOORADIAN,

With the federal government stepping in and ordering colleges and universities to give women equal opportunity in sports, do you think you can open up the sports pages to women as well as men.

I feel that you have overlooked women's sports on your pages long enough and you're very much behind times.

If you need any help, please give us a call.

Sincerely, Janet Paige of Westland.

Dear Mrs. or Miss or Miss Paige, HALP!

Dear Sports Editor,

I read your paper and like it very much, but I like the sports pages the best. One of the reasons why I turn to the sports pages is because I recognize a lot of the names.

I go to Marshall Junior High School and am in the 9th grade. Sports in our school, as in almost every other school, are very important because a very high percentage of the people participant in sports or join sports activities.

I feel very strongly about us younger people getting coverage by the local newspaper. Marshall has a very good athletic program and our girls' team went undefeated and won the City Track Championship but, unfortunately, we didn't read about it in the newspaper.

A lot of people take interest in what we are doing here at Marshall before their children also compete and it would help us as well as your newspaper to include us on your pages.

Thank you for taking time to read this letter - please don't forget about us.

Thank you, a Marshall Junior High reader.

Dear Tom,

The Belleville girls swim team would like to use your column so that we can say, "Thank You" to our coach, Sam Vicchy for all the time and effort and patience he has given us during the recent swimming season.

We have come a long way since the beginning of the season because of Coach Vicchy's hard work and unselfishness toward us. He has, along with coaches Synder and Musser, given us a chance to learn and improve our athletic skills.

It has been an enjoyable season for us and we are looking forward to next year when we hope to do ever better.

Thank you,

Members of the Girls' Swim Team.

Belleville captures own swim relays

Belleville continued to monopolize its own swim relays as Coach Sam Vicchy's Tigers parlayed five first places into their sixth championship in seven years.

The Tigers won five of eight gold medals, claiming medals in the diving, 200-yard backstroke, 200-yard butterfly, 200-yard breaststroke and the 400-yard medley relay.

Belleville picked up 41 points, beating out Detroit Catholic Central (26), Wyandotte (21) and Dearborn Fordson (19).

Pat McClelland and Mark Mills combined for 27 points to give the local team the gold in diving, while Coach Vicchy used Mike Stelton, Chris Renton, Mark Memmering and Jeff Bullock as his winning lineup for the 200-butterfly. They were clocked in 1:48.6.

Renton, Tim Whittico, Tim Frey and Jerry MacDermid teamed their efforts in the 200-yard backstroke relay and they posted the winning time of 1:50.7.

Belleville's 200-yard breaststroke entry was made up of Thomas, Jeff Robertson, Mark Schoefield and Ray Cooper who churned a 2:06.9, while Whittico, Frey, Thomas and Schoefield combined for a 4:13.6 to win the 400-yard medley relay.

Belleville returns to the pool on Tuesday for their annual Alumni Meet. That meet will feature some of the former All-Area swimmers who are presently in the lineups of college and university teams across the nation.

The meet is scheduled to get underway at 7 p.m.

Johnson is picked all-GLIAC

Ex-Westland John Glenn multi-talented athlete Terry Johnson was one of four Wayne State University players who were named recently to the all-Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Association's football team.

Johnson, a 200-pound, 6-3 senior was picked as a defensive halfback. Joining Johnson on the mythical team are Tartars Jim Gendron, (quarterback), Mike Britt, tackle, and Jerry LaPointe, defensive tackle.

Fordson could give new life to Wayne cagers

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Fordson could give down-but-not out Wayne Memorial new life in the chase for the Great Lakes 8 Conference basketball title.

Rookie Coach Steve Schwartz' Zebras, pinned against the wall after losing a earsplitting, low-scoring, last-second 36-35 decision to Taylor Center, need the crucial victory over the undefeated Dearbornites in order to stay with the leaders.

A loss to Fordson at Fordson Friday night will jeopardize the Zebras' plans to finish among the leaders in the league. Wayne will take a 1-1 league and 2-2 over-all record into Friday night's confrontation with an "untypical" John McIntyre team.

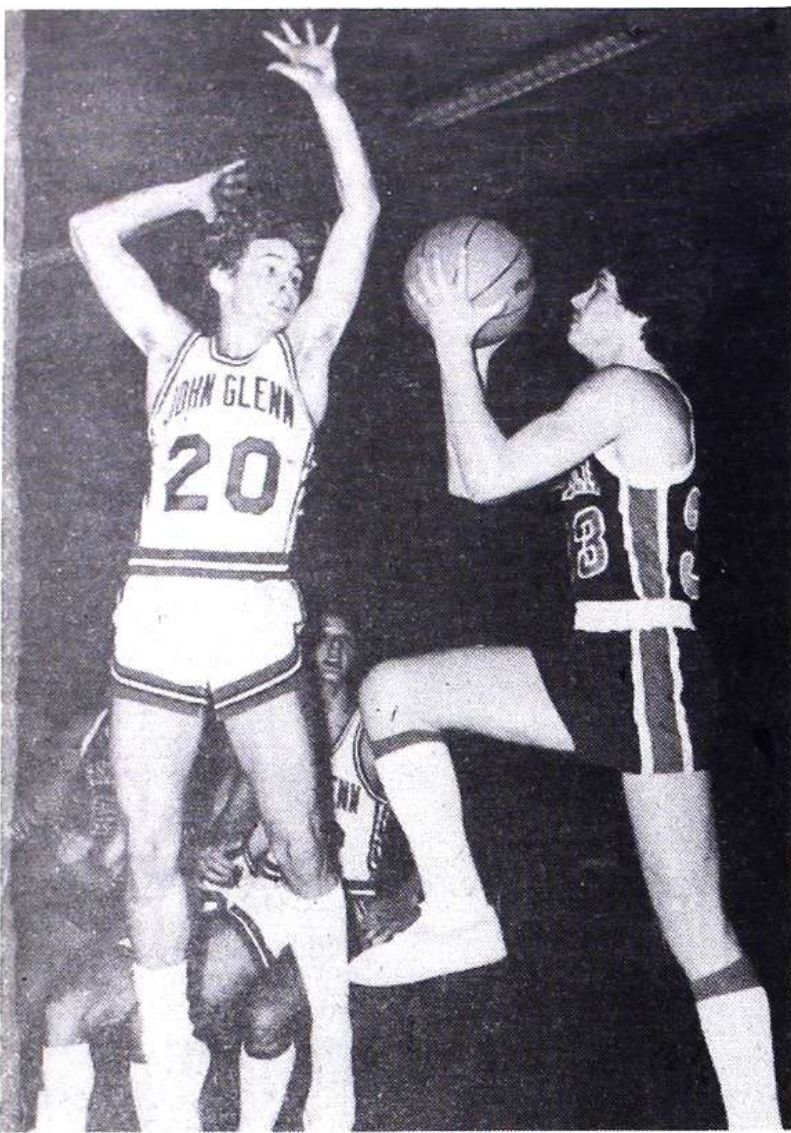

"From our scouting reports," said Coach Schultz, "this is not a typical John McIntyre team that plays a pattern-style, slowed-up offensive ballgame.

"Fordson is a more scrambling and running team this year, but they are, as they have been in the past, a traditionally strong-minded defensive squad."

The perpetrator of Wayne's demise last Friday was Chuck Blevins who retrieved a long-bouncing rebound and sank a 16-foot jumper to give Taylor Center the narrowest margin of victory, 36-35, with seven seconds to go.

Wayne had three seconds in which to retaliate and Kyle Poteau was given the opportunity to fling a

John Glenn's senior guard Daran Armstrong (20) goes up to block Jon McCarthy's shot during Friday night's Northwest Suburban Conference opener. Armstrong was charged with a personal foul on the play but it didn't do the defending champs any harm as the sharpshooting guard sank a bucket with seconds remaining in the game to give the Westlanders a 55-52 victory over the upset-minded Patriots.

Jack's is closing in on Over 30 leader

The pieces are falling apart for once-confident Futurama Engineering which had the inside track on the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League Championship a couple of weeks ago.

The league leaders are slipping fast as they have managed a tie in two games and are now a mere two points above Jack's Sportings Goods who won a decisive 5-2 victory over the leaders a week ago.

Three third period goals in a seven minute span lifted Jack's Over Futurama last Sunday. Jerry Robertson led the attack with a pair of goals while Tom Monticello, Layne Cardinal and Jerry Grube contributed one apiece.

COMMISSION ORDER

(under authority of Act 165, P.A. 1929 and Act 230, P.A. 1925 as amended)

STATEWIDE

TROUT AND SALMON REGULATIONS

The Natural Resources Commission, at its meeting on July 14, 1978, under the authority of Act 165, P.A. 1929, as amended, and Act 230, P.A. 1925, as amended, ordered that for a period of five years beginning January 1, 1979, no person shall take or attempt to take any species of trout or salmon from any of the waters of this state except by hook and line during the open seasons prescribed, and within the minimum size limits and maximum possession limits indicated below.

Statewide open seasons on all streams and designated trout lakes shall be from the last Saturday in April through September 30 (longer on waters designated by the Director for extended fishing under Act 165) on all trout and salmon. Statewide open seasons on all other inland lakes and the Great Lakes shall be any time for all trout and salmon. Size limits shall be 8 inches on Lower Peninsula streams, 7 inches on Upper Peninsula streams, and 10 inches on lakes. The daily limit for trout and salmon shall be 5 fish singly or in combination but no more than 3 lake trout or splake.

An additional 5 brook or brown trout may be taken from streams from the last Saturday in April through September 30 only.

Tigers triumph

Belleville gets message across to Dearborn

Yes, Dearborn, Belleville does have a basketball team.

Despite the persisting rumors that Coach Tom Niemi's Tigers could be an easy mark this season because of the departure of all-state candidate Kelvin Patterson, Belleville proved it is a team to be reckoned with.

Exploding for 28 points in the second period to erase a 22-18 first period deficit, Belleville went on to win a narrow 76-73 victory over the Pioneers to even up its Suburban 7 Conference record at 1-1. They're 2-2 on the over-all season after losing earlier in the week to Plymouth Canton, 76-56.

"I felt we forced Dearborn to play our style of game," commented Niemi. "We controlled the tempo and used our speed advantageously."

The issue wasn't settled until the last frame. Dearborn's 22-18 edge dissipated in the second period when 5-10 senior guard Herb Burrus drilled in 15 points to pull the Tigers in front 42-34 at halftime.

But Belleville had frostbitten fingers in the third period and managed to make five of 19 shots which helped Dearborn to come back and take a slim 60-58 lead for three periods.

Burrus, along with Gary Herndon, whose layup put the Tigers ahead for good, and Scott Straight each tossed in six points to turn the tide in the final period.

Burrus, whose 24 points earned for him individual scoring honors, also was the strong link on defense as he picked off five faulty passes that resulted in easy layups and had numerous assists.

Herndon finished with 10 field goals and a perfect two for two at the foul line for 22 points, while Charlie Blackman accounted for 12 points and Straight chipped in 10 for the Tigers who capitalized on 14 of 19 free throws.

Canton, fielding what could be the best team in that school's history, leaped to a 23-10 lead over the Tigers, built up a 39-16 halftime advantage before cruising to a 20-point, 76-56, triumph over Belleville in a nonleague contest.

"Canton's size and rebounding strength hurt us tremendously," complained Niemi. "They have a fine team."

Butch King looked completely recovered from his recent illness as the senior guard shot the eyes out of the basket. He hit on 11 field goals and didn't waste any of his four foul shots to stroll off the floor with a team high of 26 points.

Burrus, though, was one point better. The sharpshooting guard sacked 12 baskets and three of five free throws for 27 points.

Belleville clashes with Allen Park, a team that Niemi describes as a "serious threat to the perennial powers this year."

"They can field a front line of 6-5, 6-4 and 6-4," pointed out Niemi, "and the only factor we have to naturalize their height superiority is by our speed."

Allen Park's conspiracy to overthrow Plymouth Salem as the king of the Suburban 8 Conference cage world was met with fierce opposition by the champs who hung on to win their fourth consecutive contest of the season 69-64.

In a game marred by technical fouls, Salem silenced the loose tongues by repeatedly going to the bench for strength to fill in for foul-plagued regulars.

When the conference battle was over, Allen Park Coach Gary Wilkie wasn't around for the finish. He had left prematurely after disputing a couple of calls made by the refs.

Allen Park was slapped with five technicals early in the ballgame played on the Salem court. Also not around at the finish was Salem's all-state guard, Rich Hewlett and Barry Owens who were saddled with five personals each.

Hewlett, in fact, played less than 6 1/2 minutes in the second half because he had sustained four personals before the intermission.

"I felt we played an excellent first half," said Salem's Fred Thomann, "but, A. P. made a series of foul shots and we took a poor selection of shots which helped them come within five of catching up."

Glenn, Wayne finish 2-3 at Trenton

It's tourney time for local wrestlers

BY TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

The forecast is for more invitational and less dual meets on the local prep wrestling scene. And two major tournaments - one at Westland John Glenn, the other at Toledo Rogers will demand the immediate attention of area teams. Glenn, the perennial defending Northwest Suburban Conference champ and winner of eight of 10 dual meets thus far this season, will host a 16-team tournament on Saturday that will bring together teams from Plymouth Salem, Plymouth Canton, Midland, Livonia Bentley, Stevenson, Crestwood and Cherry Hill. With the defending champ, Wayne Memorial, accepting a return bid to Toledo, there definitely will be a new champ at the Glenn Invitational. "I feel that Salem has a good, solid team," said Glenn Coach Bob Lusk, whose Rockets finished second to Trenton at the Trenton Tournament over the weekend. "And I would hope we would do fairly well." Wrestling at Glenn will begin at 11 a.m. and the finals are scheduled for 8 p.m. There will be trophies for the first and second-finishing teams and medals will be awarded to the top four finishers in each of the 13 weight classes. Meanwhile, Wayne heads for Toledo where it finished third to champ, Bedford Temperance and Lansing Eastern a year ago. Coach John Wood's Zebras are expected to find the going rough again against a field that includes some of the finest talent in the state. The Toledo wrap-up will take place Saturday night. The prelims are slated to get underway on Friday. Some 13 teams competed at Trenton where the hosts nipped a Glenn lineup depleted by sickness, 35-34, in the championship round. Glenn made it to the finals by beating Ann Arbor Huron 54-16, Rochester Adams, 40-22, and

Monroe, 42-14, before clashing with the Trojans. "We wrestled some very good teams at Trenton," Lusk said, "however, our kids as a team are not ready to wrestle four times as we did over there. We don't have the endurance and we don't get that until January." Glenn was without three proven wrestlers at Trenton, Paul Demers, an All-Area performer last year, who competes at 105, Marty Salazar (126) and Chris Potere (132) were sidelined with a variety of illnesses. Wayne had the third best team at Trenton. The Zebras got off to a bad start when they dropped a 44-23 decision to the eventual champ, Trenton, then went on to whip Ann Arbor Pioneer, 55-12, Rochester Adams 32-23, and Hazel Park 43-25. Trailing the top three teams were, in order, Farmington Harrison, fourth, Ann Arbor Pioneer, Adrian, Rochester Adams, Dearborn Heights Annapolis, Ann Arbor.

Tailgating cager

Keeping a close watch on Franklin's Paul Berry's moves is John Glenn senior guard Tim Ruark (22) who helped the defending champs launch the Northwest Suburban Conference season with a victory. The champs will get their first look at a newcomer to the league, Redford Union, Friday night. R.U. defected from the ranks of the Suburban 8 Conference and is now a full-fledged member of the Northwest. Meanwhile, Franklin takes on Garden City East Friday night in hopes of winning their first conference decision of the campaign.

Fordson is next for Wayne

(Continued from 1st Sports) desperation shot that hit the back of the rim and bounced away. Taylor took a slim 11-7 first period lead, but Wayne tied it up at 15-all at halftime. Outscoring their visitors 14-9 in the third period, the Zebras established a 29-24 going into the final eight minutes. In that last period, Blevins and Jim Schafarek organized the coup that helped the Rams stay unbeaten in the league. They outscored their hosts 12-6. "Both teams played excellent man-to-man defenses," Schwartz said, "and that was one of the reasons why it was a low-scoring game. Also there were only 16 personal fouls called and nine foul shots were taken, plus only 12 turnovers. "Unfortunately, we committed two of those turnovers in the last 32 seconds," Schwartz added. Darryl Jordan, Wayne's 6-5 junior center, accounted for 10 points and eight rebounds while Kelvin Lee contributed eight. Blevins' 18 points topped the field.

On Tuesday, Wayne pulled out a 52-50 overtime victory over Garden City East for their second victory of the season. Tied at 47-all after regulation play, Wayne's Lee drove the baseline in the closing seconds of the extra period and dumped the ball to Jordan who went up and scored the decisive basket with four seconds left in the game. East scored the first three points in the overtime before Wayne began to move.

Glenn

(Continued from 1st Sports) and pointed out that "it could have gone either way." Glenn, with a 4-1 record, will get its first look at newcomer Redford Union on Friday. Redford was affiliated with the Suburban 8 for five years before it decided to leave in favor of the Northwest. Meanwhile, Franklin will try to pick up the pieces of a 0-3 start and take on league rival, Garden City East, Friday night. Franklin spotted Glenn five points in the opening period as the Westlanders, backed by Armstrong's six points, jumped in front 15-10. Franklin center, Chris Baker, kept the Patriots in the game with six points and Jeff Reich had three. The Patriots counter-attacked in the next eight minutes and managed to cut into the host's lead thanks to Jim Wilson and Bob Gohl who sank six points each in that frame. Ahead 30-28 at the intermission, Glenn got some breathing room when Ralph McKenzie and Al Mallott picked up the scoring slack and dumped in six and four points, respectively, in the third period to offset Baker, Gohl's and Paul Berry's four points. Glenn's 46-40 third period lead dwindled as Franklin came back and outscored the champs 12-9 in the last period. Armstrong, who was saddled with personal fouls and left the game after making the key basket in the last seconds due to an injury, collected 17 points, the Rockets' high, however, Baker, who departed because of personal fouls, had the game high 18.

After old fashion tongue-lashing

Romulus cruises past Monroe CC

Who sez a good tongue — lashing doesn't do the soul some good?

Down by two points at the half against Monroe Catholic Central, Romulus's Rod Hanna informed his Eagles during the halftime break just what he thought of their brand of defense and they took it all in.

When Romulus returned to the floor for the third period, they held their visitors to five points and cruised to an 88-67 victory for their third triumph in four starts.

"I was mad," said the sophomore

Romulus coach. "I knew they weren't playing the defense they were capable of - and I told them so. I went on to make some adjustments and switched the Louis brothers (Darryl and Richard) to the guard spots and the kids came back and played ball."

The defensive maneuver paid off as the Eagles finished the night with 23 "steals", many of them leading to easy layups. In that third period surge, Darryl Lewis sank 10 of his career high 30 points, while Dave Casey supported him with nine points and John Kersey added six.

Tied at the end of the first period at 18-all, Monroe CC grabbed the lead at the half 41-39 on the strength of 6-5 center Chris Hill's sterling performance. Hill tossed in 13 of his team high 20 points in that period.

Hanna would have no more of that - he informed Kersey to stop the Monroe pivotman. Though Kersey spotted Hill four inches in height, the experienced cager stuck to the taller center the rest of the way.

Darryl's best scoring effort - 30 points - topped all scorers. He was joined in double figures by Kersey, who had 17, Casey, who counted 15 and Richard Lewis, who had 10 and also 10 "steals" for the evening.

Romulus showed just how tough it can be on defense by holding a tough Detroit Martin Luther King quintet to 36 points earlier in the week. The Eagles broke open a close and defensive battle in the fourth period by erupting for 19 points while holding their hosts to six.

"A lot of practice on defense paid off," Hanna commented.

Ahead 15-10 at the end of one period, the Eagles had a slim 16-20 advantage at the half. King came back to cut into the lead by outscoring the Eagles 10-8 to trail 34-30 for three periods before Vince Bean brought the Eagles to life by scoring six of his game high 15 points in the last frame. Darryl Lewis also sank six of his 10 points and Jeff Morgan collected all three of his points then.

Romulus will be home again

Friday night when the Eagles will entertain a "so-so" Dearborn Heights Annapolis team.

"We know little about them," said Hanna. "But in the past they have managed to field some pretty decent squad."

Vikings hit road for SAC opener

It may be cold outside, but Inkster expects a very warm reception from arch-rival Dearborn Heights Robichaud Friday night.

That's when the two neighboring schools open up the 1978-79 Suburban Athletic Conference basketball campaign and if the recent past performances between these two teams are any indication of what is to be expected, then look out.

Inkster won a barnburner last year on the home floor by one point, and when they played the Bulldogs at Robichaud, Robichaud prevailed by four.

"It's an emotionally-packed thing," noted Robichaud's Francis McCauley. "It's always been like that and I don't see it changing."

McCauley pointed out that Inkster has some good people this year, and so do we, therefore, it's going to be a good game. And the Robichaud coach warned "that there'll be a turnaway crowd, so better come early."

Inkster Coach George Thompson Jr. says he expects "to have our hands full this year."

"Robichaud has height in 6-9 John Matthews and excellent all-around players," Thompson continued, "so we expect another good game. And we're going to have to keep that big man (Matthews) out of his area and force them to play our game if we're going to win."

Inkster lost 6-4 Wyman Mansel to an ankle injury in the fourth period and lost control of the boards to Willow Run which came from behind to hand the Vikings their second loss in four starts, 68-64.

Mansel wasn't scheduled to play Tuesday night against Detroit Cass, but should be ready for Robichaud, according to Coach Thompson.

The Vikings established a 19-16 first period lead as Al Dukes sank 10 of his game high 26 points in that quarter and Inkster managed to stay ahead 35-31 at halftime. But the Flyers came back and outscored their out of league rivals, 15-12 and 21-17 in the last two periods to snatch the victory away. Jackie Bailey came off the bench to lead the Flyers' uprising. He collected all 11 of his points in the last eight minutes.

Inkster managed to stay in the game again thanks to Dukes, who got 11 points - three baskets and five free throws in the finale.

"When Mansel departed from the game we lost the boards and that was the turning point," Thompson said.

Dukes' 28 points earned high scoring honors for him and Lewis, who had 10, was the only other Viking in two figures.

Jerome McBride tossed in 17 to lead a balanced Willow Run attack.

Dukes came up with 11 of his points in the last period to offset Southeastern's Don Young's torrid shooting. Young had nine of his 17 in that period and joined teammate Darnell Holloway who had 18 in two figures.

Local Tartars

The Wayne State University 1978 football team boasted several outstanding gridders from the area including Chuck Squires (74) from Westland John Glenn, Phil Emery (63), from Garden City East, Mark Grabowski (62), from John Glenn, Tom Jurweicz (79), John Glenn, Don Gotham (90), Wayne Memorial and Terry Johnson (10). John Glenn, Johnson also was named to the all-Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Association's team as a defensive halfback.

David vs. Goliath?

Grosse Ile's height advantage could cause Huron problems

Though they are not presently desperate for help in the pivot, New Boston Huron may find the going rough Friday night when Coach Gene Smith's Chiefs open the 1978-79 Huron Conference basketball campaign against a taller but younger Grosse Ile.

Undefeated in two starts, the Islanders have a solid center in 6-5 Tom Hulderman and an excellent junior forward in 6-3 Hoffman.

"They definitely have the advantage in height," said Coach Smith whose Chiefs will bring a 1-1 nonleague record into the duel after losing a squeaker, 63-56 to Melvindale.

Smith expects to equalize the Grosse Ile's edge in height by playing a zone.

"If they beat us, they'll have to beat us with outside shooting," he commented.

Smith says he'll start three guards in the conference opener - Jay Richert (5-10), Jerry Pichan (5-11) and Rich Stoklosa (5-10) and hopes to get his running game going so that the Islanders won't have time to set up against the speedy Chiefs.

Getting a rare Friday off last week, Huron should be rested for the opener. They had all they could handle from Melvindale, a team that is a yearly contender in the Tri-River.

Trailing most of the night, the Chiefs made a run for it in the fourth period and caught up 57-55 after falling behind 24-12 at the end of the opening period.

Melvindale's Frank Faraj pumped in nine points in the dying minutes of the game to seal the victory for the Cardinals.

With 30 seconds left, Stoklosa hit a 15-foot jumper to close the gap within three points. Then the Chiefs fouled, and Melvindale missed on a one-and-one opportunity. However, a faulty pass foiled Huron's attempt to tie the score and the Cardinals went on to hand the Chiefs their first setback of the season.

Randy Pichan, Huron's 6-4 senior center, played a dazzling game as he snared 17 rebounds, blocked six shots and contributed 11 points. Cousin Jerry added 10, while Rickert finished with 18 and Stoklosa added 16.

"I was really impressed at the way we kept coming back," Smith noted. "And I'm impressed at the way we're playing super team basketball."

Robichaud tankers win

Seeking an unprecedented fifth consecutive Suburban Athletic Conference swim title, Dearborn Heights Robichaud launched its title defense with a lopsided 119-49 victory over neighboring Inkster last Thursday.

On Sunday, Dec. 3, little Nichole Marie Smith, the month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Smith of Milan, received the sacrament of baptism at the Church of the Immaculate Conception in Milan.

Nicole Marie is the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith of Quirk Road and the first great-grandchild of Mrs. Cora Bradshaw of Bedell Street who attended the service and dinner held later at the home of the baby's parents on Carpenter Road.

After having spent the past three weeks visiting relatives in Tarpon Springs, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Russell Seaman of Savage Road returned home on Friday of last week. They also called on former residents of West Huron River Drive., Mr. and Mrs. Claude Aikins at Holiday.

Enroute home they stopped at LaGrange, Ga., to visit Russell's step-brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Duffy Duquette.

After having undergone surgery at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti on Wednesday of last week, Ted Lupher was able to return to his home on Karr Road on Saturday, Dec. 2.

On Sunday a nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Don Huntsinger of Taylor, were afternoon callers at the Lupher home.

Mrs. Thomas Stevens of East Huron River Drive spent Tuesday with her mother, Mrs. Chester

Shoup at Morenci.

Mr. and Mrs. George Maki of Quirk Road recently returned home from Menominee where they had spent two weeks with the former's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pickler. George spent some time hunting and was successful in shooting a deer.

George C. Wilson of East Huron River Drive is now convalescing at home after being a surgical patient at the University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor last week.

Mrs. Dorothy Curtis of Bedell Street was a guest over the recent holiday weekend of her parents, Mr.

and Mrs. Joseph Halicki of Lantana, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Benjamin of Fowlerville were Monday dinner guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Muriel Smith of Liberty Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clayton of Bedell Street were guests last Saturday evening of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Mann of Wayne.

Dinner guests last Thursday of Mrs. Norman Miller of Second Street were her son, Elmer and his wife from Garden City.

Girl Scouts have brand new logo.

A new emblem for the 67-year-old, 3 million-member Girl Scout movement in the United States was introduced at the 41st National Convention of the Girl Scouts of the USA in Denver.

The emblem is a redesign of the trefoil, a 3-leaf clover shape used in various adaptations by Girl Scouts and Girl Guides in almost 100 countries around the world. It replaces a design patented by the U.S. Girl Scouts in 1914.

"We believe it is important," said Frances Bauer, president of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, "to call attention to the distinctive, contemporary identity of Girl Scouting. The new emblem is designed to do this."

Featuring a stylized silhouette treatment of girls' faces in profile, the trefoil is accompanied by the words "Girl Scouts" in a contemporary typeface. When rendered in color, the trefoil is the traditional Girl Scout green; the words are in blue, the color of the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts.

The design was commissioned by Girl Scouts of the USA from Saul, Bass-Herb Yager & Associates, internationally known specialists in visual communications.

"The emblem reflects both the proud heritage of the Girl Scouts and its new position in a changing world of youth," said Ms. Bauer.

New singles dance announced by YWCA

The YWCA of Western Wayne County is continuing weekly Monday Night Disco Dances for single men and women in their 20's and 30's.

With the interests of single men and women in mind and the realization of the difficulties of meeting others with similar interests, the 'Y' is offering an enjoyable and comfortable evening filled with fun, dance and music by a live band or disco jockey and snacks of wine and cheese to make the evening complete.

The dances will be held at the YWCA of Western Wayne County, 26279 Michigan Avenue. The dance will be held from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. with the fee for the dance, including wine and cheese, being $4 per person.

For those who want to learn or polish up their disco dance steps, lessons will be offered prior to the dance at 7 p.m. The fee for the lessons are $14 for six sessions or $2.50 per session.

If you are interested in helping with the dances or need further information, please call 561-4110.

Coffee adds flavor to nutloaf, fudge

Instant coffee is not only a world wide favorite beverage, it is also a convenient ingredient to use in various recipes such as the coffee raisin and nut loaf cake. The loaf cake is an excellent choice for a family get-together or a bazaar.

Here is the recipe as developed in the Nescafe Test Kitchens.

LOAF:

3 cups unsifted flour
3 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 1/2 cups milk
1/4 cup Nescafe
1/4 cup vegetable shortening
3/4 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup raisins or currants

GLAZE:

1 1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons milk
1 tablespoon Nescafe
1/4 cup chopped nuts

LOAF: Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. In large bowl, combine flour, baking powder, salt and lemon rind; set aside. In large measuring cup, combine milk and Nescafe stirring, constantly until Nescafe is dissolved; set aside. In another large bowl, combine shortening and sugar, beat until creamy. Stir in reserved Nescafe mixture and egg. Stir in reserved flour mixture until moistened. Stir in raisins or currants. Spread mixture into well-greased 9" x 5" x 3" loaf pan.

BAKE at: 350 degrees F.

TIME: 60-65 minutes

Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan. Frost while warm with glaze.

GLAZE: In small bowl, combine confectioners' sugar, milk, Nescafe and nuts. Blend together well. Makes: one loaf.

Mocha-Butterscotch Fudge

For those of you who are coffee lovers and enjoy candy too, here is a tasty combination of semi-sweet real chocolate morsels, butterscotch morsels and Nescafe to make this fudge treat such a delight.

Here is the recipe as developed in the Nescafe Test Kitchens.

3 cups sugar
1/2 cup butter
Two 7-oz. jars marshmallow cream
One 13-oz. can evaporated milk (not sweetened condensed milk)
1/2 teaspoon salt
One 12-oz. pkg. (2 cups) Semi-Sweet Real Chocolate Morsels
3/4 cup Nescafe, divided
One 12-oz. pkg. Butterscotch Morsels

1/2 cup chopped nuts
In large saucepan, combine sugar, butter, marshmallow cream, milk and salt; bring to full boil, stirring constantly over moderate heat. Boil 5 minutes, stirring constantly over moderate heat. Remove from heat and pour half (3 1/2 cups) of the mixture into a bowl. Add Semi-Sweet Real Chocolate Morsels and 1/2 cup Nescafe; stir until morsels melt. Pour into aluminum foil-lined 15" x 10" x 1" baking pan. Chill in refrigerator until crusty on top (about 5-10 minutes). Add Butterscotch Morsels and remaining Nescafe to remaining mixture; stir until morsels melt. (If mixture has cooled slightly, heat over low heat enough to melt morsels). Stir in nuts. Pour over top of chocolate layer. Chill in refrigerator until firm (about 2 hours). Cut into 1" squares.

Note: Coffee does not dissolve completely. Makes 2 1/4 pounds.

Chocolate and wheat germ combo scores

Impress your holiday guests with a deliciously moist — and chocolaty — Noel Log. Toasted wheat germ is the hidden ingredient which adds not only important nutrients but an exciting new taste treat. Garnished with a lustrous chocolate glaze and filled with ricotta cheese, whipped cream and bits of chocolate and candied fruit, it serves as a delightful finishing "portrait" for your dinner finale or for a special coffee-dessert session.

A very special Noel Log

Baked goodies of every sort are in the limelight during the holidays. That's why having an ample supply of Kretschmer vacuum packed toasted wheat germ on hand is more important than ever. It's the healthful secret ingredient in the best cookies, cakes, puddings, pies and breads. Wheat germ makes everything it goes into a lot more interesting and nutritious.

Among those very special desserts served traditionally at Christmas time is the noel log or buche de noel. The popular favorite is loved for its distinctive appearance as well as for its delectable eating qualities. This wheat germ version is one of the best logs we've ever tasted. The cake is moist, the filling creamy and the chocolate glaze is shiny. A perfect combination. The result is superb taste and texture, and easy handling for home bakers.

Basically, all noel logs are filled cake rolls with a decorative icing or glaze. In this recipe, the cake itself is a wonderful surprise. The chocolate flavored batter has plenty of wheat germ to give it a toasty rich taste. The batter is baked in a jelly roll pan. Watch oven time carefully to avoid overbaking. The filling is a luscious mixture of ricotta cheese and whipping cream accented with bits of chocolate and candied fruits. Just follow the instructions for rolling the cake — it's not at all difficult to handle. A lustrous chocolate glaze finishes this holiday masterpiece. Garnish as elaborately as you wish with a sprinkle of golden wheat germ and colorful candied fruits. All eyes are guaranteed to light up when the noel log is brought to the table.

Wheat Germ Noel Log

4 eggs, separated
two-thirds cup sugar
1/4 cup flour
3 tablespoons cocoa
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/8 teaspoon salt

1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar
3/4 cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular Ricotta Filling
Powdered Sugar
Chocolate Glaze
Wheat germ, candied pineapple and cherries for garnish

Line bottom of greased 15x10x1-inch jelly roll pan with wax paper. Grease paper. Beat egg yolks until light and lemon colored. Gradually add one-third cup sugar and beat until thick. Combine and beat in flour, cocoa and baking powder. Beat egg whites until foamy. Beat in salt and cream of tartar. Gradually beat in remaining one-third cup sugar and continue beating until stiff peaks form. Fold wheat germ and egg white into egg yolk mixture. Turn into prepared pan, spreading evenly. Bake in 350 degree oven 18 to 20 minutes until cake springs back when lightly touched. Loosen edges and invert onto towel sprinkled with powdered sugar. Peel off wax paper. Roll up cake carefully in towel, beginning with short side. Cool 20 minutes. Prepare Ricotta Filling while cake cools. Unroll cake. Remove towel. Spread with filling. Roll up carefully. Cut off ends of cake on diagonal. Transfer cake to serving tray. Press cake pieces slightly to shape into branches. Attach one to either side of roll. Spread cake with Chocolate Glaze. Garnish with additional wheat germ and candied fruits. Refrigerate until ready to serve. Makes 8 servings.

RICOTTA FILLING: Combine 1/2 pint ricotta cheese, 1/2 cup whipping cream and 1/4 cup sugar in electric blender. Whirl, stop and go fashion, until thickened. Stir in 2 ounces chopped semisweet chocolate, 1/4 cup wheat germ and 1/4 cup diced candied pineapple and cherries.

CHOCOLATE GLAZE: Melt over low heat, stirring occasionally, 3 ounces semisweet chocolate and 3 tablespoons shortening. Remove from heat. Cool to spreading consistency.

Suburban Living Editor

What's the worst thing that could happen to a homemaker who gets a bit bake-happy at this season? Yours truly thought it was having her faithful old oven go on the fritz. But — as cruel a blow as that was, the kicker came when the repairman said, "— and it might be two weeks before I can get the part."

(And I'm having 20 for Christmas dinner, she shrieked!).

By now there are usually dozens of different cookies tucked away in Tupperware or tin containers but thus far, the cupboard is bare. I guess there IS a semi-solution — taking to no-bake route for a few things.

One recipe will definitely be the "No Bake Holiday Orange Balls" which was run on the Suburban Living pages last week. Our staff and Chamber friend were treated to samples of the delicious, moist goodies last Thursday — and gave our nods of approval to Diane's Wednesday night cooking session.

And lest there be a question about the size of that box of vanilla wafers — Diane used the 12-ounce and it worked out beautifully.

Now, to hunt for other no-bakers.

DO YOU EVER WONDER — Why you never get full "poppage" from a package of popcorn and always having 20 or 30 kernels left in the pan? — Why some of the best groomed men seem to drive the dirtiest cars? — Why some folks never take a look at the condition of their mailboxes; don't seem to realize they're on view for everyone to see?

Seems I stirred up a small whirlwind last week with my pet peeves segment. Had feed-back from several different sources, three of them agreeing on their gripe (certainly a current one) — women shoppers. The trio, all men, felt that women were extremely rude, shove and indifferent (in a nutshell: obnoxious) and a real pain in the backside. The fella I married will add "amen" to that; it's been his HIS complaint for YEARS!

Freeloaders were also at the top of the scale for other vocalizers on the subject in particular solomons and bachelors who snap up invitations gleefully but never, never reciprocate by taking their hosts to lunch or dinner once in awhile. Or perhaps bringing a bottle of wine, candy or some other small offering to those entertaining.

Talkers in movies... kids left to run wild in supermarkets... kids barely able to talk answering the phone... cigars... "sneak thieves" who steal parking places... drivers going through amber lights... hurry-for-me-and-the-hell-with-you attitudes... indifference.

That last emotion (?) act (?) attitude (?) — indifference — brings to mind a quote from Dear Abby — "The opposite of love is not hate as commonly thought; the opposite of love is indifference."

HOLIDAY HINTS: Instead of flattening cookies with a fork, try using the coarse side of a steak hammer dipped in flour. Gives cookies a waffle-like top and is much quicker.

Take the drudgery out of preparing for that big season of entertaining by tucking a few pieces of seldom-used crystal, plates, serving pieces, cocktail glasses into each load of dishes you run. You'll find yourself writing off one big chore by doing it the bits 'n pieces way.

If you've not purchased that all-important Christmas tree as yet you might like to visit the lot being manned by the Belleville Kiwanis Club. They're located in a new spot this year — a handy one with lots of parking — next to Dingman Electric on East Huron River Drive.

During the day the Belleville Area Senior Citizens Club takes over the selling detail with the Kiwanians coming in after their regular work hours.

Profits from the sale (it's the club's biggest project) go into a special fund for community giving and many a young man or woman has been involved in Kiwanis sponsorship — in Scouts and sports, at camps, workshops, scholarships, trips, etc. Senior citizens also have benefited from the sale in the form of wheel chairs, donations and funding of transportation for various trips.

It's truly a worthwhile place to shop for the that important piece of greenery which transforms your home into "Christmas."

Having never been among those who sneer at, lambaste or ridicule traditional holiday letters (the multi-copied ones that come tucked in Christmas cards), I found myself doing a sudden about-face today.

I stress "today" because it's "last Thursday" — that goopy, sloshy, sleety and altogether repulsive winter day we woke to.

When you read the following farewell lines from our bubbly, enthusiastic "note" from Coral Gables, Fla. you just might understand my sudden turn-about... (spelled r-e-s-e-n-t-m-e-n-t.)

"As we renew our tans, bask in the sunshine, loll in the pool, and cruise around Biscayne Bay on a sunny day, we want to wish all our friends a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. We won't miss the snowflakes falling, the 12" to shovel, or the slippery roads this year."

Hiss... boo... gr-r-r...

For the season's most listenable new tune, we nominate Engelbert's "This Moment in Time" ... nice. For the area's best sandwich we say "warm turkey on rye" at The Big Apple. For an interesting, different bit of diversion in the reading department, we give the nod to Robin Moore's "The Big Puddle". For best-round customer relations in a department store, we applaud Jacobson's where not only are our purchases gift boxed and beribboned (free of charge) but where they've innovated valet carry-out service.

(And the raspberry to other "big" stores who charge for their tacky fold-down versions of gift boxes which you very often have to traipse halfway round the acreage to find at the gift wrap center.)

A cheer, tho', for package pick-up areas. Oh what a relief it is!

IF YOU MISSED Cindy Williamses transformation from the Shirley half of "Laverne and you-know-who" to "Regina" in last week's "Suddenly Love," you avoided red-rimmed eyes, a drippy nose and a couple of sobs.

Her poignant portrayal of the young wife and mother left little doubt that Miss W. CAN run the gamut from the ridiculous to the rewarding. Guess I'm among those who agree it's time for the return of those old-fashioned love stories.

And if you didn't catch "Heaven Can Wait" when it made the rounds here, welcome to the club. Missed its local circuit but DID see it on vacation and it was a cute, cute movie; most enjoyable. If you can still find it someplace, go!

ALICE FUGEDI

New job placement coordinator named

Students, graduates and dropouts of Romulus, ages 16 to 21 having a difficult time finding jobs, have someone on their side. Joining the team of the new Career Opportunity Resource Center as Job Placement Co-ordinator is Alice Fugedi.

Ms. Fugedi will be part of the school district's team which will educate students in employability skills and help them find their place in the world of work. She will be responsible for making contacts with potential employers in the community and matching the available positions with the interests and skills of applicants in the Job Placement Office.

In "preping" applicants for job placement, Ms. Fugedi will provide the client with an awareness of all aspects of acquiring a job and keeping it. Clients may also obtain information about different occupations, wages, training and job market demand.

Individuals in need of a job or in need of an employee can contact Ms. Fugedi at the Career Opportunities Resource Center at Romulus Senior High School. The hours of the center are 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Mrs. Molik entertains Garden Club

Christmas arrived early at the home of Mrs. Walter Molik as the ladies of the Van Buren Garden Club met for lunch on Dec. 5. Amid twinkling lights, greens, pine cones and candles and background music of Christmas carols, the members enjoyed a delicious luncheon of baked ham, salads, cookies and ice cream.

Entertainment was furnished by Ms. Bobbie Buesser, a representative of American Airlines, who showed slides of the "Flowers of American Cities" and offered an interesting commentary on the pictures.

After a short business session, the meeting was adjourned. There will be no January meeting.

Finance committee plans BPW program

Members and guests of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) met for their December meeting at Faith United Methodist Church in Denton where the Finance Committee had planned an unusual Christmas program.

The Rev. Susan K. De Foe, who is pastor of the host church and a club member, appeared in costume and gave a narration on Mary, the mother of Jesus. Prior to her presentation, the Belleville Community Chorus under the direction of

On Dec. 15 BPW members will visit the Sunnyview Convalescent Center for a sing-along.

The Public Relations Committee will be in charge of the Jan. 8 meeting which will feature journalist Barbara Wikox as guest speaker. Dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. and guests are welcome. Please call Margaret Saunders, chairman, at 699-9710 for reservations. Cost of the dinner is $3.75 per person.

Frozen foods: Some guides for refreezing

If you are concerned about what foods can be safely refrozen, here are some guidelines to follow. Remember that while many frozen foods may be refrozen with no danger, they may be lacking in some of their original quality.

Meats: Do not refreeze, if they have warmed to room temperature and have completely thawed. If complete thawing has occurred, red meats should be cooked immediately. They can then be refrozen. Partially thawed variety meats, sausages and hamburgers should be cooked immediately.

Fruits: Completely thawed fruits should be used immediately. Fruits may be refrozen, but there may be a quality loss.

Prepared Foods (meats in cream sauces, frozen dinners, cream pies and leftovers): These are best discarded, or cooked immediately, if they have thawed completely.

Frozen Juices: Orange juice that thaws should be reconstituted according to directions and used.

Fish: If it has completely thawed, it is best consumed on the spot or thrown out since it can spoil very rapidly.

Poultry: If poultry has thawed, but is still quite cold to the touch, it may be cooked and refrozen. Anystuffed poultry should be discarded.

Vegetables: Vegetables that still show ice crystals may be refrozen but should be used as soon as possible. If completely thawed, you can refreeze some vegetables — plain ones, not with sauces... if they have not been held at room temperature too long. Vegetables also may be cooked and refrozen separately or as ingredients in a casserole or other dish.

Breads: Can be refrozen, however, this sometimes produces dryness and affects the quality of the icing.

Your photo wasn't used?

If you're wondering why that photograph you sent in with your engagement or wedding story wasn't used, it was because it was not suitable for publication. Candid snapshots are not acceptable since they do not contain the sharpness and contrast needed for reproducing.

In order for a photo to be used with an engagement announcement, it should preferably be a head shot in wallet size. But if only a larger studio picture is available we can reduce it to fit one column.

We prefer not using pictures of couples for engagements although we will accept one if it was taken professionally and especially for the engagement.

Wedding photographs submitted can be either of the bride alone or the bridal couple but must be of professional quality — NO SNAPSHOTS. We will accept color pictures but ask that you please submit photos that are close-ups of the subject.

Your cooperation in choosing a good photo will result in your not being disappointed when your picture is not printed.

Garden calendar may be ordered

The Washtenaw County Cooperative Extension Service is pleased to announce the production of its second annual garden calendar.

The calendar provides answers to many commonly asked homeowner questions. It is full of helpful hints, planting, spray and harvest dates, all geared for local growing conditions. Tips are designed to help people keep one step ahead of pests and other problems.

To receive your calendar send a check or money order for $1.25 per calendar to: Garden Calendar, Washtenaw County Cooperative Extension Service, County Service Center, 4133 Washtenaw, P.O. Box 8645, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48107.

MUSICAL NOTES

by Doug Brown

It is never too late to learn how to play a musical instrument. In spite of the old saying, you can't teach an old dog new tricks. It requires the same disciplines necessary to teach young people, a willingness to learn, and a good teacher. Good teachers are available, and mature people who are determined to learn often find it easier to practice that do the young. Of course, there's little chance to have a great musical career starting to play late in life, but a great musical life is certainly available to you.

If you have been considering an extra special gift for your family this Christmas come on down to DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9219 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus, 941-8484 and look over our fine selection of quality instruments. One of these instruments is sure to bring a great deal of musical enjoyment to your family for many years to come. Master Charge and Visa honored.

HELPFUL HINT:
Rent a musical instrument before you purchase if you like. Determine how serious you are.

MRS. DAVID ALLEN THACKER

Thacker-Jacobs vows exchanged

Big Creek Primitive Baptist Church in Canada, Ky., was the setting Oct. 28 for the double ring ceremony which joined Ethel Nanette Jacobs and David Allen Thacker in holy matrimony.

Elder Joe Stone presided at the six o'clock rite under an arch adorned with blue and white carnations, baby's breath, greenery and candles.

The bride, who resides in Canada, Ky., is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jacobs of 2203 Fenster, Belleville. Given in marriage by her father, she appeared in a gown of white sate lustré organza designed in the empire mode. Lavishly detailed with lace appliques, the bodice featured an illusion neckline with a high stand-up collar. The lace motif was repeated on the long bishop sleeves, at the cuffs and above the deeply flounced hemline.

Her mantilla style veil of silk illusion, bordered with matching Venice lace, was cut in mid-back length. Completing her ensemble was a bouquet of white daisies, pink rosebuds and baby's breath.

Sharon Jacobs traveled from Belleville to serve as her sister's only attendant.

Accenting her long blue gown was a bouquet of pink and blue carnations.

The bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Thacker of Kimper, Ky., chose his brother, Tim Thacker, to serve as best man.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Jacobs donned a blue street-length dress to which she pinned her corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Thacker, the bridegroom's mother, chose a 3-piece lavender ensemble and also was presented with white carnations.

A reception honoring the newlyweds was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Varney following the ceremony. The young couple later departed for a weekend trip to Breaks Interstate Park of Virginia. On their return they took up residence in Canada, Ky.

A graduate of Belleville High School, the new Mrs. Thacker received an associate degree in nursing from Monroe County Community College in 1978 and is unemployed at the present time.

Her husband graduated from John Creek High School in Kimper and works as a coal miner at McCoy-Elkhorn Coal Company.

Set your 'body clock'

By FLORINE MARK

Your "body clock" is telling you what time to eat just as it is set to wake you up at a certain hour.

By setting the schedule according to constructive eating patterns, you can go a long way toward making your diet work.

Putting body rhythms to work for you results in planned eating at planned times. Proper planning results in wise dieting.

The best way to begin is by analyzing your daily time cycle. When do you usually wake up? When do you eat breakfast, lunch and supper? When do you snack?

Once you have established your pattern, look ahead and work out a seven-day eating schedule. Don't purposely plan to have snacks in the morning, afternoon or evening, but don't simply omit them from the schedule, if you know that you'll take them anyway.

Make the schedule realistic, based on your usual waking hours and work hours and considering the weekend differences. Once you have devised a plan with which you are comfortable, resolve to eat at the times you have chosen and only at those times.

To do this, you'll find it easier to tell your family, friends and co-workers what you are up to.

They should understand that you are trying to free yourself of urges to eat, except at certain times of each day.

Once you've made the commitment to follow a schedule, you should make certain to plan your between-meal eating as carefully as you plan your meals.

I suggest sticking to simple foods that aren't too tempting and certainly keep within the confines of your diet.

Having mastered preplanning, be sure to keep a careful record of what you eat. As every dieter knows, it's one thing to set a course and still another to keep on it.

Over a period of time, your body clock will respond with an acquired rhythm of eating.

Poinsettias: Pepita's gift to Christ Child

"On a Christmas Eve long ago Pepita was sad. This little Mexican girl wanted more than anything to give a fine present to the Christ Child at the church service that evening.

"But she was very poor and had no gift.

"As she walked sorrowfully to church with her cousin, Pedro, he tried to console her.

"Pepita," he said, 'I am certain that even the most humble gift, given in love, will be acceptable in his eyes.'

"So Pepita gathered a bouquet of common weeds from the roadside and entered the church. As she approached the altar, her spirits lifted. She forgot the humbleness of her gift as she placed it tenderly at the feet of the Christ Child.

"...And there was a miracle. Pepita's insignificant weeds burst into brilliant bloom.

"They were called Flores de Noche Buena—Flowers of the Holy Night."

What are Flores de Noche Buena? Their botanical name is Euphorbia pulcherrima, but we know them as poinsettias, a native of Mexico.

The poinsettia has become a part of our Christmas tradition, a welcomed gift of the holiday season that lasts and lasts. And its blooms are not limited to just red. There are white, pink, orange and even marbled varieties of the plant.

According to the Society of American Florists, which supplied the short story of Pepita's miracle, poinsettias were first cultivated by the Aztecs. Called Cueltaxochitl, they were prized because they symbolized purity.

It also had a practical value. A crimson dye was made from the colorful bracts and a fever medicine from the milky latex that dripped from the plant when it was cut.

Seventeenth century Franciscan priests were the first to use poinsettias in their Christmas celebration. They were used in the nativity procession, Fiesta of Santa Pesebre.

However, the man that introduced poinsettias to the United States was our first ambassador to Mexico, Joel Roberts Poinsett. He had some sent to his home in Greenville, S. C. in 1825, and since that time, poinsettias have borne his name.

A bit of tender loving care is needed to keep Pepita's miracle vivid and beautiful beyond the holiday season.

Place the plant in a room where there is sufficient natural light to read fine print.

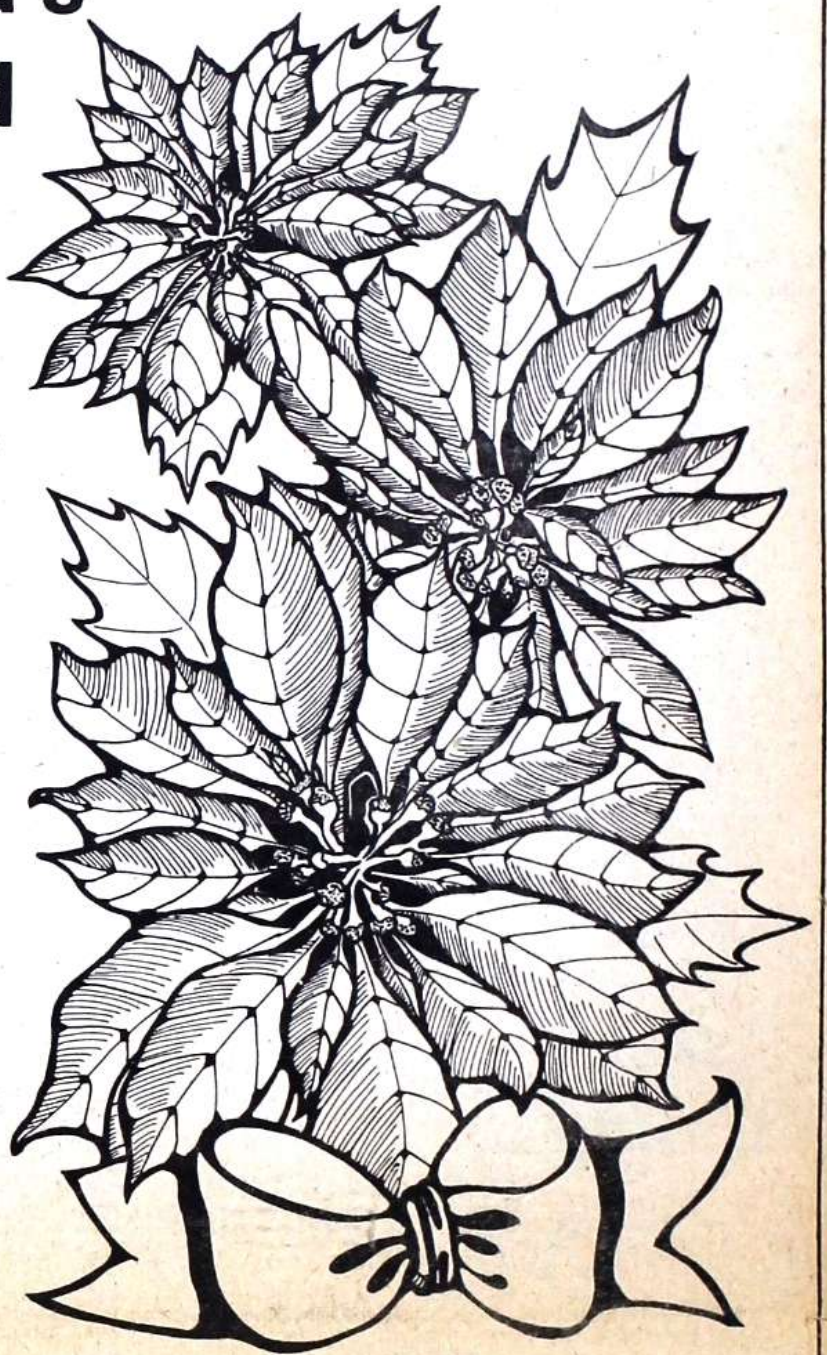

Avoid drafts or excess heat from appliances, radiators or ventilating ducts.

Place the plant high enough to be away from traffic and out of reach of unmonitored children and animals.

Water plant thoroughly when the soil surface is dry to the touch. Remember to discard excess water.

To prolong the bright color of the bracts, temperatures should not exceed 72 degrees during the day and 60 degrees at night. When bracts age and become muddy green, cut the plant back to 8 inches to grow as a foliage plant.

Just in Passing

By KAY DeBORD

I have a confession to make that may lose me some readers. I simply could not get all excited over the 50th birthday of Mickey Mouse. In fact, if I have a choice in the matter, I never watch a Mickey Mouse cartoon. I don't care for Donald Duck, Pluto, Minnie Mouse and Huey, Dewey and Louie either.

And it's not because I am "grown up." I didn't care for them when I was a kid.

Added to the things I could do without can be added the names of Popeye, Olive Oyl et al.

It's not that I don't like cartoons. It's just that such characters as Sylvester and Tweety, Wily Coyote and his Nemesis, the Road Runner, are more likely to tickle my funnybone.

I also have been known to watch Scooby Doo when no one else is around. And I never miss the "Peanuts" specials.

Another person that left me completely indifferent was — are you ready for this? — Elvis Presley. Add to that the name of Robert Redford and some people may consider me beyond redemption.

I didn't care much for Frank Sinatra in his heyday (and mine), but as I grew older and mellowed, his artistry with the lyrics of a song attracted my attention and I added myself to his list of admirers. Besides, he showed the good taste to be married, however briefly, to Ava Gardner, an actress I found most glamorous.

And if you really care, I can do without Tom Jones and Engelbert, too.

Just to show that I am human, I do like Hal Linden (and his off-Barney Miller baritone), also Robert Goulet and Steve Lawrence (and Eydie) and granite-faced Robert Stack and Paul Anka and Paul Williams.

Add to that the Statler Brothers, the Oakridge Boys, Barbara Mandrell and Crystal Gayle and Mel Tillis.

So maybe I'm not too far gone! There are others, too.

Guys with their shirts open down to their belly buttons really turn me off (if they care), and high-water pants with white socks don't do too much for me either. If their feet are allergic to the dyes in socks — let 'em wear longer pants, I say!

And before someone starts pointing the finger of blame at me, let me tell you that I am well aware of all MY shortcomings, but at this late date you'll have to take me as I am!

"HOW DO I GIVE COMFORT TO THE TERMINALLY ILL?"

It is usually best to maintain the same closeness you have shared in the past. Your contacts with the person should be of the same type as they were in the past — a phone call, short visit over coffee, a personal note — whichever was your manner of contact before you heard of the illness.

If making a personal call seems too difficult, perhaps a short note indicating "word has come to me that you are ill. Please be comforted that you are in my thoughts and prayers."

Silence can often be interpreted to mean indifference to one who is ill. A simple note of concern and love makes an opening for a personal call at a time convenient to the sick person. That personal visit will surely prove a comfort to both parties!

And finally, that personal visit should be made just as you ordinarily might make. Don't change your personality or behavior — rather "be yourself." Bring news or items of interest into the conversation, all in a way to show you care.

For domestic assault victims

Debbie Benjamin to direct 'First Step' program

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

The First Step project to help victims of domestic assault in Western Wayne County has hired a director, and has a promise of office space that will be available in about a month.

Now, all it needs is money to begin a program.

The first priority of new director Debbie Benjamin, who was hired Nov. 16, is to write an application for funding from the State of Michigan, which has set aside $1 million specifically for such programs that deal with domestic violence.

Since she began the job, she has been working out her plans to set the program in motion, but most of the plans now hinge on all-important funding.

It has been the City of Westland that has been the major financial benefactor for the project so far. The city allocated $25,000 of its federal community development grant to the Western Wayne County Project on Domestic Assault, or "First Step". That money made it possible for the board of directors of the non-profit corporation to hire the director.

Westland has also allocated a CETA (federally funded job) slot to the project, said Ms. Benjamin. And the city has offered the project rent-free office space at its Dorsey Community Center. Both should be available in about a month.

The program for abused wives has been in the planning for about a year. One of the prime movers in its organization was The Rev. Douglas Hodges, pastor at Westland's Norway Baptist Church until the church closed about a month ago. Hodges and his family recently moved to another state, so Hodges vacated his co-chairmanship of the project.

Ms. Benjamin, 24, received her masters degree in social work in April from the University of Michigan. She has experience working as an emergency mental health counselor for Washtenaw County. In that job, she frequently came into contact with abused wives as she handled calls received on a 24-hour crisis line.

Once funding is obtained, one of the first plans is to set up a 24-hour crisis intervention phone line, she said. Victims of domestic violence could call the number, and workers would have the staff available to send out and meet with the woman.

Also available would be funds to provide the victims with emergency temporary shelter away from home. The priority is to guarantee the victim immediate physical safety. This might be done by putting them up in a motel, or in volunteer homes in the community. Many times, this would mean not only housing the woman herself, but also her children. A beaten wife usually will not leave the violent situation without taking her children with her. However, First Step will not be immediately opening a shelter per se, as was originally planned.

The project also will provide ongoing counseling at the office. Women and men who suffer domestic violence will be seen individually, or in group, or in family counseling, if both partners are willing to be involved. The counselors also will help refer the persons to agencies that might help them with social services.

Ms. Benjamin stressed that counselors would be helping the victim explore her options. The ultimate decision on what to do—to leave her partner, to seek a new home, job or attempt reconciliation—would be up to her.

"I don't see the role of the counselor to recommend a course of action," she said. "The counselor will help her explore what she wants to do."

She also responded to the sometimes heard argument that such programs for abused wives help only to break up families.

"I see our services as essentially strengthening the family unit," she said. "Families are supposed to be bonded by feelings of love and affection, and having violence occur contradicts society's whole notion of what a family should be."

"We do not tell the women what to do. But if it is her decision to leave because the situation is intolerable, at least we can help her with practical considerations."

What makes domestic violence so unique is that the assault is done "by a person you love and who supposedly loves you," Ms. Benjamin pointed out.

There may be men in the area who are abused and can use the same services, Ms. Benjamin said. She said the extent of husband beating is not known, adding: "If it's embarrassing for a woman to admit that she is beaten by her husband, think of how embarrassing it would be for a man to seek help."

As part of the program, Ms. Benjamin said that the interaction between First Step and the police departments will be a "critical relationship." She said she hopes to work out a relationship with the police where they would see First Step as a support service and would call them to help when they get a domestic assault call.

The problem of domestic violence traditionally has been dumped on the police, since they usually the first to intervene in most cases.

Community education as to "the magnitude of the problem" also will be an important part of the work of First Step, she added.

Ms. Benjamin discussed her plans with the idea of funding from the state in mind. Without that funding, the project will operate "as best we can" with volunteers, seeking donations where it can. Other areas of funding are available, too, such as through the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, she said. In addition, First Step will continue to seek local support such as it received from Westland.

The project services would be open to all residents of Wayne County, except the City of Detroit.

Practically speaking, because of its headquarters in Westland, it probably will be Western Wayne County residents who take advantage of the services when they start up.

There are junk food junkies, health food faddists and, tucked away in Michigan State University's department of food science and human nutrition, a nutrition revolutionary of sorts, who says that there simply are no good or bad foods.

Gilbert A. Leveille's background suggests he's not biting off more than he can chew when it comes to the subject of nutrition. He has a doctor of philosophy in nutrition and biochemistry from Rutgers University and is chairman of his department at MSU. He also serves as a nutrition specialist for the university's Cooperative Extension Service.

As a nationally recognized expert in his field, Leveille is trying to help eradicate the widespread guilt associated with eating snacks like potato chips and soda pop and that all-American meal, a hamburger, french fries and milk shake.

Even if a food contains so-called empty calories, it still has some nutrient value, he points out, because calories are a nutrient.

Leveille believes eaters should understand all foods. His idea of understanding includes a "nutrient density" analysis, which compares the amount of nutrients provided by a food to the food's energy content.

To explain how this concept enters into food choices, Leveille compares food requirements for a teen-age boy and girl.

"Generally, a teen age boy will be very active, have a high energy requirement and be eating a lot of food, so his individual choices need not emphasize high nutrient density foods.

"On the other hand, a teen-age girl may be less active, not growing as rapidly as her male counterpart and often more concerned about keeping her weight down. Therefore, she must have a more nutrient dense diet because she is eating less food. She can ill afford to include very many low nutrient density foods in her diet."

The message Leveille delivers is not difficult to digest.

"Fundamentally, a balanced diet based on selections from the four food groups still is as good as anything we have.

After a person has fulfilled the basic dietary needs, snacks or other "fun" foods may be added, as long as caloric intake does not rise above the level needed to maintain proper weight, he says.

Leveille practices what he preaches. To counteract the 150 low nutrient dense calories contained in his favorite before dinner drink, he "pays the price by jogging."

Although he believes the United States has the best nutrition in the world, Leveille admits that some congressional factions disagree. He characterizes the congressional approach to nutrition as oversimplistic, with its goal being to put either red or green labels on food, in a stop-or-go manner.

The nutritionist doesn't mince words when it comes to the health food phenomenon, calling it nonsense. He says health food devotees may find the products psychologically appealing, but lower cost alternatives usually can be found in the supermarket.

Similarly, Leveille says food supplements like alfalfa or yeast tablets make no significant nutritional contribution, despite claims to the contrary. That's why he would like to see greater governmental regulation of health foods subjecting them to the same controls found in the rest of the food industry.

Most vitamins, according to Leveille, probably are a waste of money, with people taking a tablet very day as insurance.

Despite food fads, Leveille is a continual optimist when it comes to American nutrition.

Art Institute redesigns 8 galleries

The delicate craftsmanship, elegant fabrics and precious decorative objects characteristic of French 17th and 18th century courts and wealthy homes are on display in eight reinstalled galleries in the Ford Wing of the Detroit Institute of Arts. The newly designed galleries now are part of the museum's permanent collection.

The reinstallations of French decorative arts include the 18th century drawing room known as the Kanzler Room named for benefactors Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kanzler and the fund established by Josephine and Ernest Kanzler. In the luxurious drawing room, Louis XV period paneling from a chateau near Amiens, France, has been refinished in muted green with white accents. Six arched mirrors inset in the panel in opposite pairs visually expand the space. On the Rococo style variegated gray marble fireplace stands a neo-classical ormolu (a process of gold plating on bronze or brass) clock by Parisian watchmaker Jean-Baptiste-Francois Cronier. French doors are draped in apricot silk with all the room's colors combined in silk tassel fringe.

Among the extraordinary furniture in the Kanzler Room is a large bombe' commode, or chest of drawers, veneered in Brazilian kingwood and rosewood inlaid with geometric marquetry. Elaborate bronze drawer pulls and decorations accent the piece.

Designed for comfort as well as elegance, the Regency style bergere (arm chair) was well padded and proportioned to accommodate the wide skirts of the period. The upholstered chair back features wings to protect the sitter from drafts. Its exposed carved walnut frame is decorated with shell and leaf motifs.

Other chairs are well cushioned whether styled with open or upholstered arms.

In keeping with the craftsmanship of the furnishings, decorative objects such as Chinese (K'ang Hsi period) porcelain vases were mounted on French ormolu bases.

In galleries flanking the Kanzler Room, silver-gilt and gold goblets, urns, sculptures and decorative objects are displayed in specially designed cases.

Depicting mythological subjects, a group of Gobelins and Beauvais tapestries of wool and silk shot with gold and silver threads adorn the area's entrance gallery, which opens into the Dodge Music Room. The Music Room's contents, a 1970 bequest of Anna Thomson Dodge from her Grosse Pointe Farms home, Rose Terrace, include a huge Aubusson rug in tones of rose, blue and cream, which is complimented by peach and rose walls of the gallery, a Beauvais tapestry woven from a cartoon by Boucher, more than 40 pieces of Sevres porcelain, 18 large pieces of furniture and 12 seating pieces, plus clocks, torches, terracotta sculptures by Clodion and paintings by Fragonard. Many of the pieces were purchased in the 1930s by Mrs. Dodge from the former imperial collections of Russia sold through Joseph Duveen by the Russian government.

Adjacent galleries feature a variety of French metalcraft, porcelain, sculpture, and paintings from the museum's 16th through 18th century French collection.

In addition to the Art Institute's extensive collection of French paintings and sculpture, which ranks among the finest outside of Europe, a number of works are on long term loan from the Cooper Hewitt Museum in New York City and the National Museum of History and Technology in Washington, D.C., both Smithsonian Institutions, and from anonymous European and American collections.

The eight-gallery wing is on permanent exhibition and is open free to the public during regular museum hours, Tuesday through Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. (closed Mondays and holidays).

Treasures show off France's 2nd empire

From Jan. 18 through March 18, 362 works of art in the Second Empire will reflect an extravagant, sumptuous period of formidable diversity—the brief, glittering reign (1852-1870) of Emperor Napoleon III, the last sovereign ruler of France, and his Empress Eugenie.

Both of the genius and the ostentation of the Empire are reflected in the array of paintings, sculpture, drawings, furnishings, textiles, decorative objects and period photographs. Paintings by Ingres, Delacroix, Corot, Winterhalter, Courbet, Manet, Degas, Renoir; sculpture by Bayre, Carpeaux, Rodin; photographs by Le Negre, Nadar, Braun—only a partial list of the artists represented—suggest a period of academic tradition and a period of transition as well, for the Second Empire witnessed the emergence of the Impressionists and the beginnings of modern art as we know it.

While state patronage of the Salons and state-sponsored Universal Expositions gave exposure to thousands of artists and craftsmen, Napoleon III made his most memorable contribution as a city planner.

Aided by Baron Haussmann, he transformed Paris from a medieval town to a city of handsome vistas, parks and boulevards, great public buildings, lavish entertainments and public spectacles. The festive Second Empire ended in political humiliation with the Emperor's surrender in the Franco-Prussian War of 1870. French pride consigned Napoleon III and all manifestations of his reign—including the visual arts—to historical oblivion.

Now, a century later, a comprehensive international exhibition presents the first objective reassessment of "The Second Empire: Art in France under Napoleon III."

"The Second Empire"

is the largest exhibition ever presented at the Detroit Institute of Arts and is the largest group of French works of art ever to visit the United States. Some three-quarters of the objects have never been shown outside of France. The exhibition's value has been estimated at $34 million.

It is organized by the Philadelphia Museum of Art and the Musees de France and joined by the Detroit Institute of Arts.

The exhibition will be on display Tuesdays through Sundays beginning at 9:30 a.m. The last admission will be sold at 4:30 p.m.

General admission to the exhibit is $2.50. Students and senior citizens will be charged $1.50, while children under 12 accompanied by adults, will be admitted free of charge.

For further information on the exhibition contact the Detroit Institute of Arts of 5200, Woodward Avenue, Detroit 48202, or call 832-2730.

Mormon concert choir stages musicale Saturday

The Detroit Mormon Concert Choir returns to Westland on Saturday at 8 p.m. to present the 1978 "Christmas Festival of Music."

The concert will be given at the newly completed Westland Stake Center of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, which is located at 7575 N. Hix Road, south of Koppernick.

The concert choir last appeared in this area during the spring of 1976. Since then it has given concerts in Philadelphia, and Washington D.C., as well as Ann Arbor, Grand Rapids, Lansing, Midland and Bloomfield Hills, which is considered the choir's "home" base, although its members (90 voices) hail from more than 20 different communities throughout southeastern Michigan.

The choir's spring concert at Orchestra Hall in Detroit raised approximately $7,500 which was donated to the committee working on the hall's restoration.

Ed Yager of Pleasant Ridge is the choir's conductor, as he has been since the group first got together in 1975. Arley Nelson of Lansing serves as choir president with Ted Cardon of Bloomfield Hills assisting as vice-president. Mrs. Mary Griffis of Haslett, Mich., is secretary. The accompanists are Heady Cope at the piano and Jill Locke of Farmington at the organ.

Choir members rehearse at 7 a.m. every other Saturday. Members sing for the sheer enjoyment of the music, and all have other church assignments as well.

Mrs. Julie Locke, of Livonia, serves the choir as alto section leader. She is a homemaker, mother of three active children and serves in the Livonia Ward as president of the Young Women's Organization. In this position, Julie has responsibility for young ladies aged 13-18 and supervises the three advisors who are assigned to instruct them in the doctrines of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

This year's concert will include two selections from Handel's oratorio "The Messiah": "Unto us a Child is Born", and "The Hallelujah Chorus". Many of the traditional favorite Christmas carols are also being rehearsed, as are three new works by Latter-Day Saint composers — "Soft, Soft" by A. Lawrence Lyons, "Christmas Jubilation" by John T. Longhurst (one of the Salt Lake City Mormon tabernacle organists), and "Christmas Bells are Ringing" by Robert P. Mannookin.

The choir also will perform the Christmas Festival of Music at two other locations — Dec. 15 at 8 p.m. in the Lansing Stake Center of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, 431 E. Saginaw Road; and Dec. 17 at 8 p.m. in the Bloomfield Hills Stake Center of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, 425 N. Woodward, Bloomfield Hills.

The concert is free and open to the public.

Detroit Diesel Allison's Romulus Parts Manufacturing Center has been honored by Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc. for its landscape plan, which augments the natural beauty of the surrounding area. The plan included the preservation of many shade trees, natural wildlife cover and as much of the existing growth on the site as possible. A plaque was presented to the division at the annual Keep Michigan Beautiful Awards Program in Lansing. Accepting the award for outstanding service on behalf of Detroit Diesel Allison Division was Ray D. Burns, director of facilities and planning for the Romulus facility. Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc. is a nonprofit, educational public service organization established in 1962 by private citizens. It was designated by the governor of Michigan as the coordinating agency for all beautification activities in the state. The plaque represents DDA's continuing determination to be a "good neighbor." The Romulus landscaping project not only provides a pleasant work environment for employees, but it also adds to the serene beauty of the area.

Bethany Church choir presents 'Ring Bells'

"Ring the Bells", a different Christmas Cantata, will be presented by the Bethany Baptist Church Choir on Sunday at 7 p.m.

Taking its theme from the moving Gospel songs, "Ring the Bells", it develops the story of the First Christmas in a warm and personal way.

To create maximum communication, several refreshingly unusual monologs have been included. These narrations will be costumed to provide added color and dramatic effect. The choral group will utilize an orchestra tape background, under the direction of Doyle Wise. Soloists for this year will be Mrs. Therese Carnahan, Bryan Losen and Rev. John Losen, pastor of Bethany Baptist Church.

The Bethany Baptist Church is located at 810 E. Huron River Drive, just east of the Belleville city limits.

The Cantata also will be presented by Bethany's Choir at the Berean Baptist Church, 6889 Belleville Road, on Dec. 20 at 7 p.m.

"The greatest concept we human beings are capable of pondering is that God became man in the person of Jesus Christ," Pastor Losen said. "It is our hope that this musical will convey something of the wonder of that miracle."

Meadow Brook sets Concours d'Elegance

26, 1979, against the magnificent background of Meadow

Brook Hall, a 100-room Tudor-style mansion on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester.

Michigan's first Concours d'Elegance will feature nearly 100 autos, including not only superbly restored models from the 1925-1942 classic car era, but also finely-crafted cars built before World War I.

W-W will to EMU's Contemporary Parenting

"Contemporary Parenting: A Community Approach" is the title of a new demonstration project that will be offered in Western Wayne early next year.

The project, under the direction of Dr. Bruce Warren of the Eastern Michigan University sociology department, will be offered in the Wayne-Westland Community Schools in late January.

The eight-week class and workshop will be for all parents, with an "emphasis" on adoptive parents, single parents, step-parents, foster parents and parents of handicapped children.

Subject matter of the classes and workshops will vary and will be based on a needs assessment, which is now being conducted.

"In this community there already are some existing parent courses."

The purpose of the program is to provide a means for parents to meet and discuss the problems of parenting. In addition, they would be able to increase their knowledge about normal child development, their skills in managing behavior and their awareness of existing community resources.

Warren added: "We are aiming at good parents who want to do even better at raising their kids. There are not enough parents out there getting their questions answered."

He explained why such classes and workshops are necessary:

"A few decades ago, most people married in their late teens or early 20s. They tended to stay married and lived near their relatives and were close to their neighbors."

"Through coffee klatching with neighbors and talking with relatives, they were able to get feedback on their parenting. But now, with more than 40 percent of the women working and our highly mobile society, people don't have the same opportunity to share. We're attempting to meet that need with parent education discussion groups."

Contemporary parenting, according to Warren, is further complicated by the "blending" of families. Blended families occur when two people who already have children get married. Other blended families might have both natural and adopted children in the same household. Still others might have foster children as well.

Warren added that more women are working, and "women at work are less likely to discuss parenting, than if they were sitting next to a neighbor in the park watching their children play."

The setting of Meadow Brook Hall for these beautiful and historic automobiles is appropriate for its elegance and also for its historic significance. It is the former home of Matilda Dodge Wilson, widow of auto pioneer John Dodge. Described by the distinguished planning committee as a "public salon showing of elegant motor cars from the golden past," this event will be open to the public for the support of Meadow Brook Hall, which is now operated as a cultural and conference center.

For further information about the Meadow Brook Concours d'Elegance, contact Meadow Brook Hall, Oakland University, Rochester, Mich. 48063, or call 377-3140.

RESOLUTION 78-564

WHEREAS: Title I of the Federal Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 provides that urban counties may receive entitlements for community development funds; and

WHEREAS: The County of Wayne, Michigan may qualify as an urban county as specified in the Act; and

WHEREAS: Act No. 18, PA 1933, Ex. Sess., as amended being Section 125.651 et. seq., of the Michigan Compiled Laws Annotated and Act No. 344 PA 1945 as amended, being section 125.71 et. seq., of Michigan Compiled Laws Annotated is the basic State legislation authorizing the County of Wayne to undertake essential community development and housing assistance activities within its boundaries provided it has an intergovernmental agreement with the specific community; and

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus wishes to join with the County of Wayne in the planning and implementation of this program.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: This 7th day of November, that the City of Romulus hereby agrees to participate in this program under the auspices of the County of Wayne for the period of one year from the time of approval of the County's 1979 program application by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, and be

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the City of Romulus agrees to allow the County of Wayne to use its population and other demography as specified in the Act and Administrative Regulations governing the use of funds under Title I of the Act for qualification to participate in the program.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the City of Romulus agrees to cooperate with the County of Wayne in undertaking, or assisting in undertaking, essential community development and housing assistance activities, specifically urban renewal and publicly assisted housing, as contained in the 1979 application.

4G. Motion by McAnally, supported by Cantrell, to permit six Romulus Firemen to attend the Emergency Care of the Burn Victim Seminar to be held in Ann Arbor on November 10, 1978. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - McAnally, Cantrell, Raspberry, Block, Canejo, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

78-571
4H. Motion by Block, supported by McAnally, to adopt Resolution No. 78-571:

RESOLUTION 78-571
WHEREAS: The Federal Government saw fit to initiate a program to assist local units of Government in relieving critical unemployment conditions; and
WHEREAS: The Anti-Recession Program has made a substantial impact on unemployment conditions throughout the nation, and certainly in the City of Romulus. The City of Romulus has been able to provide desperately needed employment and training opportunities, and at the same time deliver needed services which otherwise may not have been possible.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the City Council of the City of Romulus does herewith set forth its enthusiastic support for the passage of new legislation which would at minimum provide the same levels of funding, but hopefully provide additional funds to enhance the City's abilities to meet the persistent unemployment problem; and continue to provide expanded services to the public.
BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That copies of this Resolution be forwarded to President Jimmie E. Carter, Senators Riegle and Levin, Congressman Ford and all surrounding communities.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Block, Canejo, Raspberry, Cantrell, McAnally, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

4. Motion by McAnally, supported by Cantrell, to accept the Mayor's Report. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - McAnally, Cantrell, Canejo, Block, Raspberry, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

78-572
5A. Motion by Block, supported by Cantrell, to accept the Administrative Report of the City Attorney, Charles Lowther. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Block, Canejo, Raspberry, McAnally, Cantrell, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

78-573
7A. Motion by McAnally, supported by Block, to adopt Chapter X, Article 3.1, an ordinance to regulate the hours of operation of Public Parks in the City of Romulus. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Block, Canejo, Raspberry, McAnally, Cantrell, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

78-574
7. Motion by McAnally, supported by Cantrell, that the Administration investigate a self-insured program for a retirees insurance plan, and that a report be brought to City Council within 30 days. 78-575
Motion by Canejo, supported by Cantrell, that a communication be sent to Doyle, Litt and Company, Auditors, requesting an update as soon as information is available. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Block, Canejo, Raspberry, McAnally, Cantrell, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

9B. Motion by Cantrell, supported by McAnally, to adopt Resolution 78-576:

WHEREAS: The City Council of the City of Romulus has been notified that the Public Service Commission is considering yet another petition from one of our utility companies requesting permission to increase, once again, the cost for the utilities they are delivering; and
WHEREAS: The citizens of the State of Michigan are continually advised that the utility companies must discontinue traditional services. In the case of Edison, they no longer provide light bulb exchange; in the case of Michigan Bell, they can no longer provide Directory Assistance; in the case of Michigan Consolidated Gas, they can no longer provide service to less than five (5) customers. However, and notwithstanding, the cost for service continue to rise while traditional services are continually withdrawn. It is very difficult for us in the City of Romulus to understand why half as much service cost twice as much money.
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the City Council of the City of Romulus does herewith set forth its unalterable objection to any and all increases to support utilities, unless the increase accompanies a corresponding increase in service to the public.
BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That copies of this resolution be forwarded to Governor William Milliken, Senator William Faust, Representatives Gary Owen and Edward Mahalak and all surrounding communities, individually and collectively.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Cantrell, McAnally, Block, Canejo, Raspberry, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

78-577
9C. Motion by Cantrell, supported by Block, to schedule a meeting with SEMTA and the Romulus City Council on Monday, November 21, 1978 at 7:00 p.m., for the purpose of discussing a transit system. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - McAnally, Block, Cantrell, Canejo, Raspberry, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

10. Motion by Cantrell, supported by Block, to adjourn the meeting. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Cantrell, McAnally, Raspberry, Canejo, Block, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

Respectfully submitted,
Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk
City of Romulus

2. In Memoriam

OUR BEAUTIFUL daughter Joan who would have been 18 years old December 10, and left us one year ago December 17. A bright, cheerful girl who was so full of energy and spirit for her school, John Glenn. She knew the meaning of true love and touched the hearts of so many people. Will be remembered forever by many people (young and old) especially her mother, father, sister Nancy, brothers Jim, Dan, Joe, and little David.

THIS is a very lonesome household without our son "Jerry". Howard Watkins Family, 34966 Richard Street, Wayne.

LEGAL NOTICES

Sirs:

You are hereby notified that the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Wayne, Michigan, did, at a meeting of said Board held on October 26, 1978, decide and determine that the certain street described in the minutes of said Board should be a County road under the jurisdiction of the Board of County Road Commissioners. The minutes of said meeting fully describing said street are hereby made a part of this notice, and are as follows:

Minutes of the regular meeting of the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Wayne, Michigan, held at the Board's offices, 415 Clifford Street, Detroit, Michigan, at 9:00 A.M., Eastern Standard Time, Thursday, October 26, 1978. Present: Chairman Berry, Vice-Chairman Herron, and Commissioner Burton.

Commissioner Herron moved the adoption of the following resolution:

BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Wayne, Michigan that it hereby accepts the dedication to the use of the public of the following described roads and they are hereby taken over as county roads and made a part of the county road system of the County of Wayne:

That part of Aberdeen Blvd. (Formerly Donald Blvd.) 75 feet wide which lies between the north line of Saltz Rd. (Formerly Marquette Ave.) 86 feet wide and the south line of Keystone Ave. (Formerly Gladstone Ave.) 60 feet wide, excepting the West 10 feet and the East 5 feet thereof, said Aberdeen Blvd. having been dedicated to the use of the public in "MCINTYRE GARDENS" a subdivision of the W. 1/2 of the N.W. 1/4 Section 14, T.2S., R.8E., Canton Twp., Wayne Co., Michigan, as recorded in Liber 61 of Plats on Page 71 and also said Aberdeen Blvd. subsequently having been vacated by resolution of the Board of Wayne County Road Commissioners on October 5, 1972, recorded in Liber 18245, Deeds, on Page 518, Wayne County Records.

The motion was supported by Commissioner Burton and carried by the following vote:

Ayes: Commissioners Herron, Burton and Berry. Nays: None.

THIS NOTICE IS GIVEN UNDER AND BY VITURE OF ACT NO. 283 OF THE PUBLIC ACTS OF 1909, AS AMENDED.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand at Detroit, Michigan this 20th day of November, A.D. 1978.

HERE'S A CATCHY IDEA

Ideas, like footballs, aren't always the easiest things to get a handle on. Sometimes they get away from us.

For instance. Using a Classified Ad to sell something you no longer need, but which can be useful to someone else, is not a new idea. Chances are you've used these little ads before and learned for yourself how well they work. But the point is, have you thought of the idea lately?

Why not get with it again and give us a call?
Tell us the things you want to sell. We'll do the rest.
And then in a couple of days, you'll learn all over again that using the Classified Ads occasionally really is a good, catchy idea!

HOUSEWIVES WERE handed three boxes containing identical amounts of the same detergent in different colored boxes. The women testing the detergent reported that the one in the yellow box was too strong, the blue boxed one too weak and the one in the two toned yellow and blue box was just right. And you'll find things just right for you when you read the Associated Newspapers Want Ads. There is such a variety of merchandise and services advertised there, you'll find it a fun and money saving habit. Turn there now!
